Expect House To Back Move To Purge WPA Of Communists

War Developments In Europe Appar- ently Assure O. K. DRIVE STARTED

Action Follows Dies' Charge of 'Fifth Col- umn' Plan

Washington—(AP)—Tales of "Trojan horse" activities in Europe were generally expected today to assure house approval of legislation to purge the WPA rolls of all communists.

Representative Cannon (D-Mo.), floor manager of the $975,650,000 WPA bill, told reporters that he would support this provision. Representative Ditter (R-Pa.) served notice recently that such an amendment would be offered.

The drive to deny WPA jobs to communists was launched immediately after Chairman Dies (D-Texas) of the committee on un-American activities told the house last week that communists and nazis had a "fifth column" plan for this country similar to that used in Norway.

Dies ordered committee hearings, starting today, which he said would show details of a communist espionage and sabotage plan.

See Early Vote

The house vote on the communist amendment, however, probably will be taken before these hearings get into full swing.

Debate on the relief appropriation was complicated by a long list of proposed amendments. As approved by the appropriations committee, the bill would permit President Roosevelt to use all the WPA money during the first eight months of the new fiscal year, which starts July 1.

Some members want to require the appropriation to last a full year. Others want to provide more than twice as much money as the president asked.

Several moves are planned to earmark portions of the fund, a policy which Mr. Roosevelt criticized last week.

The president urged congress today to remove a relief bill cost limit on WPA projects and contended that advocates of the limitation could "be charged with a desire to return to boondoggling."

He added:

"The limitation would have a particularly harmful effect upon the attempt which is being made to use the program of the work projects administration to further national defense."

Adds Postscript

In a postscript, the president said that a good deal of fun had been poked at raking leaves, cleaning up parks and the like and that the word "boondoggling" had become a part of the political vocabulary.

"It is true," the postscript said, "that in those days, when the emergency of relief was great and the machinery new, there was a certain proportion of projects which did not have any particular permanent value."

"I think that people who insist on the limitations in Section 11 (the $50,000 limitation provision) may, with some justification, be charged with a desire to return to boondoggling."

All Navy Districts Told to Speed Up Defense Activities

Washington—(AP)—Naval air strength of not less than 10,000 planes and 16,000 pilots to man them was proposed in legislation introduced today by house and senate naval committee chairmen after a conference with President Roosevelt and ranking admirals.

Washington—(AP)—All navy establishments were ordered today by Lewis Compton, acting secretary, to speed up defense preparations by working additional shifts and by increasing civilian shipbuilding forces by at least 15,000 within three months.

Compton sent a letter to the commandants of all naval districts, yards and stations, all bureaus and offices of the navy department and to headquarters of the marine corps.

In connection with the army phase of the emergency defense program, meanwhile, it was forecast that the house military committee would vote to remove, for a prescribed period, all limits on the number of planes the army may procure.

The committee was closeted with war department officials for almost two hours today. Members said it had approved tentatively a provision to permit the army to discharge civilian employees suspected of subversive activities, without regard to civil service requirements.

Army Supply Bill

The senate, told by Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) that the next few days of the European war may "mark the turning point of civilization," began consideration of the $1,821,000,000 army supply bill into which has been incorporated a major share of the emergency defense program.

Pepper broke into discussion of the measure and offered a resolution to permit the president to sell to the allies for cash any warplanes now in the possession of the army and navy.

Even as Compton's order was announced President Roosevelt concentrated on navy affairs, summoning ranking admirals and senate and house naval committee chairmen to a conference at which the effects of federal labor laws on ship building were expected to be discussed.

The house committee approved a proposal to authorize the navy to dismiss, without regard to the civil service law, employees engaging in subversive activities. The committee withheld final action on the legislation, however, until Vinson could take to the White House a set of amendments designed to relax the labor laws.

Without slackening speed, congress forged ahead with legislation that would give the industrial machine the "go-ahead" to turn dollars into tanks, warplanes and fighting ships.

The senate called up for debate the unprecedented peace-time

Mother Held in Slaying of Son At Manitowish

District Attorney Says Murder Warrant to Be Issued

Manitowish—(AP)—Jackie Verlaan, 7, who the police said was shot three times last night by his distraught mother, died in Holy Family hospital today.

Police Lieutenant Aaron Peterson said the mother, Mrs. J. H. Verlaan, about 37, was detained.

District Attorney Patrick A. DeWane said he would issue a first degree murder warrant. Coroner Gerald A. Rouse ordered an inquest this afternoon.

The shooting occurred in the Verlaan home. Policemen, summoned by neighbors who heard the shots, sped the boy to the hospital, where physicians resorted to blood transfusions in an effort to save his life. Jackie died at 2 o'clock a. m.

Officers Charles Denor and Melvin Reinhardt said Mrs. Verlaan told them:

"I've killed my boy. If he doesn't die, you'll kill him for me if you take him away won't you? Because I've got a lot of other people to kill."

She also told them, the officers said, that "some dead boy" had been communicating with her and had been asking to have her son join him.

Shortly before the shooting occurred Charles Backus, an automobile salesman, reported to police he had met the mother and son at the home of a neighbor where she had gone to ask help in fixing a .32 caliber automatic which had "jammed."

The boy told the neighbors that he and his mother were planning "to shoot tin cans."

Buckman Attorneys
Called as Witnesses
In Trial at Madison

Madison—(AP)—Glenn W. Stephens and Perry A. Sletteland, of Madison, attorneys for the B. E. Buckman Investment company prior to its collapse in 1937, were subpoenaed today as government witnesses in the federal court trial of eight former officers and employees.

Stephens and Sletteland represented the Buckman firm during the period in which the defendants were alleged to have violated the federal securities law and to have used the mails fraudulently.

United States District Attorney John J. Boyle, who is conducting the prosecution, announced issuance of the subpoenas as the trial was resumed today. Stephens was waiting outside the courtroom.

Sletteland is under federal indictment in Chicago on a charge of perjury resulting from his testimony at a hearing before securities exchange officials in Chicago in 1935. He was indicted in November, 1938, but has never been tried.

Sheboygan—(AP)—The will of the late Walter J. Kohler, setting up a trust fund for his widow which would give her an annual income up to $50,000 and bequeathing $250,000 for a memorial auditorium in the village of Kohler, was filed for probate today in Sheboygan county court.

A sum equal to that set up in trust for Mrs. Kohler is to be divided between the former governor's four sons, John M. Kohler, Walter J. Kohler, Jr., Carl J. Kohler and Robert E. Kohler. The sons also were named residuary legatees of Mrs. Kohler's trust.

Gen. Otto H. Falk Dies in Milwaukee Of Heart Disease

Was Chairman of Allis- Chalmers Board, Direc- tor of Many Firms

Milwaukee—(AP)—General Otto H. Falk, chairman of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company board of directors, died today of heart disease, which had kept him confined to his home since last November. He was 74 years old.

General Falk also was vice president of the Falk Corporation of Milwaukee and a director of other corporations.

He was born here June 18, 1885, son of Franz Falk, a brewer operator. Following his graduation from Northwestern college at Watertown, Wis., and from Allen Military academy in Chicago, he turned his attention to the military.

For several years he served in the Wisconsin National Guard and won distinction through his work in suppressing riots here and in Chicago. He became adjutant general of the Wisconsin National Guard at 28 and during the Spanish-American war served as a lieutenant colonel, being special inspector of the quartermaster department of the United States army.

In 1912, General Falk became receiver of the Allis-Chalmers company. He reorganized the concern and a year later was elected president, subsequently becoming board chairman.

He was active in numerous other companies, including banking, insurance and manufacturing enterprises. He also was active in various philanthropies, military organizations, and society.

General Falk is survived by his widow, the former Elizabeth C. Vege; a son, Otto, Jr.; a daughter, Mrs. Carl Eberbach; and a brother, Herman.

High Court to Consider Legion Group's Demand

Madison—(AP)—The supreme court accepted original jurisdiction today in a suit by the American Legion Convention Corporation of Milwaukee, demanding that State Treasurer John Smith release $27,050 of a $50,000 appropriation granted the corporation by the last legislature.

As in the case of the Disabled American Veterans Convention Corporation of Green Bay, which has asked release of $4,000 of a $10,000 appropriation, the high court will decide the issues on briefs which must be filed by opposing counsel by June 4. The D. A. V. corporation instituted a suit about a week ago.

Treasurer Smith refused to pay out the funds when William T. Evjue, Madison editor, challenged the constitutionality of the appropriations. The legislature allotted the money to help Green Bay obtain the national D. A. V. convention this year and Milwaukee the American Legion convention next year.

To Prison For Larceny

Shawano—(AP)—Harry Taylor, 40, of Green Bay, pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and was sentenced today by Circuit Judge Joseph E. McCarthy to three years in state prison. Execution of the sentence was stayed and Taylor put on probation.

Taylor was charged with participating in the robbery of $3,500 from a safe in the John Fischer home at Gresham last September. Two others face trial in the case.

Judge McCarthy sentenced Clifford Brandt, 29, Shawano, to a year in the reformatory for snagging sturgeon. He was fined $300 for resisting Game Warden O. K. Johnson.

Italy Orders Blackouts And Air-Raid Drills as She Prepares for Strife

Skopje, Yugoslavia—(AP)—The frontier between Yugoslavia and Italian-held Albania was closed late today by Italian order.

New of the border closing was received shortly after the announcement in Rome that Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano was leaving for Tirana, capital of Albania, now part of the Italian empire.

Reports filtering across the frontier to Yugoslav military quarters here said the Italian army had speeded up transport of large quantities of war materials across the Adriatic to the Albanian port of Durazzo.

Rome—(AP)—Italy, Germany's non-belligerent ally, appeared today to be preparing to enter the war as she ordered blackouts and air-raid drills in her chief industrial areas for a three-day test beginning tonight.

Speeches of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano in Milan and Cremona, in which he said that Italy awaits only "the order of the day" from Premier Mussolini "when he will have decided upon it," increased the feeling among Italians that they might be called shortly to fight on one of their frontiers.

Diplomatic circles attached significance to an article by Giovanni Ansaldo, editor of Count Ciano's newspaper Il Telegrafo, asserting "the hour is near when our influence on the course of events must be more active."

When Italy does move, he added, one of its objectives will be "territorial increases."

Telephone Service Cut

He declared that, although Britain and France undoubtedly would react differently now to Italian claims than they did 18 months ago, it would be "too late."

Telephone connections between Rome and London, meanwhile, remained suspended.

The possibility of Italy's entrance into the conflict in the immediate future was indicated further by the air-raid drills, which were the first ordered since the opening days of the war last September.

The drills were ordered for Rome province, Terni, 45 miles northeast, where great arms and munitions factories are operating at top speed.

The drills were ready to test anti-aircraft guns and to give Italians another taste of what to expect when the nation goes after its so-called "aspirations."

Anti-Aircraft Guns

Fascists were ready to patrol the streets and to see that pedestrians take shelter when sirens screech warnings of pretended raids.

Anti-aircraft batteries were uncovered on the roofs to "fire" at sky invaders who might be expected to swoop in mock raids at any time during the next three days.

Along with these preparations for war there continued demonstrations against Britain and France which brought out troops and carabinieri. A shouting group of young Italians marched toward the British consulate, but was held back by helmeted soldiers who appeared suddenly on the scene.

For time early today solid ranks of troops and carabinieri still were massed on the streets around the French and British embassies and the British consulate.

Roosevelt Invites Landon to Parley
At National Capital

Chicago—(AP)—Alf M. Landon, who said last night an invitation to a White House conference had been rescinded, announced today he was going to Washington after receiving a personal telephone call from President Roosevelt.

The Republican leader received a telephone call in the midst of a conference with reporters regarding last night's postponement of a White House invitation.

The 1936 Republican presidential nominee stopped off in Chicago last night en route to Washington for a luncheon appointment with Mr. Roosevelt. Landon received word from Brigadier General E. M. Watson, presidential secretary, that the meeting had been postponed "indefinitely."

Today's telephone call from the president was placed to the office of Bill Blackett, Republican national committeeman for Illinois, and was relayed to the Chicago club, where Landon was engaged in a press conference.

Dutch Diplomats are Safe in Switzerland

Bern, Switzerland—(AP)—Dutch diplomats and legation attaches, released by the Germans after being held for a week until all German diplomats at The Hague were accounted for, arrived here last night.

They chose to leave Germany via Switzerland rather than return to their German-held homeland. The Dutch said they were held at a hotel and were well treated.

European War Bulletins

Paris—(AP)—Small detachments of German motorcycle troops have penetrated in the outskirts of the Abbeville region, near the English channel, a French spokesman admitted tonight.

London—(AP)—Additional United States warships are expected in Portuguese waters, it was reported here today. A new naval squadron, it was said, is coming to replace the one now on the Tagus river, but both will be here for several weeks so "the United States may have a number of units on the Tagus at the opening of centennial celebrations."

London—(AP)—A German plane was reported tonight off the English southeast coast. Anti-aircraft guns went into action.

London—(AP)—Heavy rumbling like distant thunder was heard tonight in the east coast towns of Great Yarmouth and Gorleston, stirring speculation among residents that it was gunfire on the continent. Doors were shaken and crockery rattled on the shelves in seashore homes.

Amiens and Arras Fall To Germans

Reynaud Tells Senate 'Im- mediate Decisions' Are Necessary

Paris—(AP)—Premier Reynaud announced in the senate today that the Germans had taken Amiens and Arras and freely confessed that the classical French concept of war had come up against something new in deep motorized raids and parachutists.

Telling the senators "the truth" because it alone "can save the fatherland," the premier declared "we must take immediate decisions."

He explained the disorganization of the army assigned to hold the line of the Meuse river in Belgium by disclosure that French divisions were less numerous "in that sector."

The troops had been sent farther into Belgium, the premier continued, declaring that made it "easy" for enemy mobile units to penetrate into the Meuse region.

The premier laid part of the blame (three third words censored) for the Nazi advance on the failure of French defenders to blow up bridges across the Meuse.

25-Mile Advance

These faults "will be punished," he shouted and the senate, which had been listening in somber silence, broke into cheers.

Reynaud spoke about 10 minutes, after which the session adjourned, leaving the government free to call another when it deemed it necessary.

The premier's announcement indicated a 24-mile German advance within the last 24 hours. (Besides Amiens and Arras, the German command said nazis driving to the channel also had captured Abbeville, about 15 miles from the coast.)

At the same time, a semi-official French news report said "the whole region behind Cambrai," east of the German thrust through Arras and Amiens, "is being burned systematically by incendiary bombs."

Reynaud told the senators that the French withdrawal started when the army of General Andre

Roosevelt Vetoes River-Harbor Bill

Says Non-Military Activi- ties Must Yield to Preparedness Needs

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt vetoed today a bill authorizing appropriations of $109,985,450 for river and harbor improvements and surveys.

In a message to the house, he said he believed projects already authorized supplied "a sufficient backlog" and that "regardless of every other consideration, it seems to me that the non-military activities of the war department should give way at this time to the need for military preparedness."

He added: "This is a need, not so apparent at the time the bill was under consideration by the congress, that must now be recognized by all as a matter demanding priority of attention."

Mr. Roosevelt said, however, he would be glad to approve separate legislation authorizing a few items in the bill which are of national defense value.

He noted there already were in existence authorizations of $20,720,140 for river and harbor projects and that these include $48,746,390 of "so-called inactive projects."

Furthermore, he said, the pending war department civil functions appropriation bill carries $25,000,000 for work on existing projects.

Racine Still State's Second Largest City

Racine—(AP)—Racine held its place as the second largest city in Wisconsin, judging by the 1940 census, the federal census area office reported today.

The 1940 census revealed a population here of 67,159, a decrease of 838 from 1930. Census officials had reported previously that Madison, with a population of 66,802 in 1940, might displace Racine as the second city.

Report French Ninth Army Crushed, Staff Captured

BY PRESTON GROVER

Berlin—(AP)—In a lightning breakthrough, the nazis declared today that they had stormed to within 12 miles of the English channel while their vanguards on the southern front pushed within sight of the Eiffel tower in Paris.

The Germans reported these successes:

1. Capture of Abbeville, Amiens and Arras in the drive toward the English channel.
2. Crushing of France's ninth army and the capture of a French commander, General Grand, with his staff.
3. Elimination of the last allied resistance in Reihel, the capture of Laon and an advance to the Aisne-Oise canal on the southern edge of the "bulge" in northern France.
4. Capture of the last fort in Belgium's Namur fortifications, attacks east of Ghent and frustration of an "enemy attempt to force a way out southward from Valenciennes."
5. Heavy damage by air attack to transports, merchantmen and war vessels on the French-Belgian coast; bomb hits on a British battleship and heavy cruiser off the Norwegian coast.

Claim Favorable Position

The racing plunge to Abbeville, about midway between the French channel ports of Dieppe and Boulogne, was said by nazis to have put Adolf Hitler's army in position for a battle which might bring destruction to the British expedition in France as well as to a large segment of the Belgian-French defenses.

Opposing the German march, nazis have estimated, are about 300,000 British, 250,000 Belgians and 1,000,000 French troops.

In the drive westward, called by the Germans a march of unprecedented magnitude, the nazis apparently had succeeded in cutting off the mass of allied troops fighting for the last 12 days on Belgian soil.

They said the developments for the last 24 hours—apparently carrying the nazis farther at some points than the German armies pushed throughout the World War—indicated the allies were on the verge of paralyzing losses in Belgium and northern France.

The Germans seemed confident that they had bottled up the whole British expeditionary force.

Acidly, these sources asserted that the English were fleeing to the channel ports to embark for home "in the century-old conviction that the British Isles are invincible."

Share Prices Slump
Under Heavy Selling,
Recover Moderately

New York—(AP)—The stock market reeled under the heaviest wave of selling of the war period today, but recovered moderately in the final dealings.

Prices of leading issues tumbled $1 to $1.5 a share, but several came back $2 to $3 from the lowest prices in the last half-hour.

Brokers said investors were taking shares from their strong beliefs and dumping them, fearing a quick German victory in Europe would lead to grave and far-reaching changes in world economics.

The slump in prices since the start of "total war" less than a fortnight ago was estimated to have wiped out more than $9,000,000,000 in total quoted value of shares traded in the exchange.

Stock exchange circles, however, said there was no absence of bids on the scale-down as the market declined.

Women Urged to Find
Way to Put End to War

Milwaukee—(AP)—The general Federation of Women's clubs was urged today to direct its leadership to "attack the greatest scourge of mankind—war."

Addressing a breakfast sponsored by the Milwaukee Junior Women's club, Mrs. Charles Senn of Milwaukee, told delegates to the federation's council meeting:

"Regardless of how this war terminates, this task will lie before us. Many of our senior members had sons in the last war. Are our sons, who are still in babyhood, going to have a condition like this to combat when they grow to manhood? Must we mothers sit back while our sons and grandsons grow up? Must they, too, fight another 'war to end war'?"

"We, as young women starting to raise our sons in this unsettled world, are only asking the federation to help us try to find a way to lasting peace."

Louvain Library Again Destroyed As Nazis Advance

Eiffel Tower Visible but Hitler May Delay Drive to Take Paris

By Louis F. Lochner

With the German Western Armies—Another World War tragedy has been repeated. The library of the University of Louvain, burned in 1914 and rebuilt in 1923 with American funds, is charred wreckage once more.

Planes have gutted the $500,000 structure, erected through public subscription in the United States, and have destroyed its 700,000 rare volumes, collected from around the world and contributed to replace those lost in 1914.

Loss of the new library was discovered by American newspaper correspondents visiting Louvain as guests of Adolf Hitler. No one seemed to be able to say how the fire started.

In the German World War advance through Belgium they occupied Louvain on Aug. 19, 1914. A week later the library was destroyed by fire, with thousands of books and manuscripts which could not be replaced.

The ancient town of Louvain itself, a fourteenth century cloth-making center and long famous as the seat of the university, was shell-bombed and shattered. Practically the entire population of 41,000 had fled.

Eiffel Tower Visible

The famous Eiffel tower of Paris was clearly visible to the advance guards of Adolf Hitler's forward-dashing army this morning but it was by no means certain that the foe—or would endeavor to capture the French capital in a hurry.

He seemed more concerned with routing Belgian, French and English troops headed for the French coast of the English channel.

No less a man than General Walter von Reichenau, commander of the eighth army, was selected to perform this task.

Yet even von Reichenau was not too busy to offer a welcome to American correspondents visiting the German western armies as Hitler's personal guests.

Knows Pincer Tactics

Von Reichenau is credited with knowing every detail of Germany's famous pincer tactics. He covered himself with glory during the Polish campaign by a practical illustration of how these tactics can be applied.

With von Reichenau's army on the right wing apparently heading in the direction of the French and Belgian coastal points and with the left wing gradually moving southward, Hitler could afford to let the center take care of itself, as indicated in yesterday's high command communiqué.

War On England

One must not forget that Hitler regards the present war primarily as a fight with the British empire. Months of incessant propaganda have incited this idea also in the minds of the German people.

Significantly, every radio announcement concerning events in the west ends with the stereotyped playing of the song "We are Sailing Against England." No tune is ever played indicating an anti-French theme. The anti-English song also was played during the seizure of Denmark and the Norwegian campaign.

Once in control of the Belgian and French coastal harbors Hitler would want to get ready for a smashing drive on the British Isles, for which the first chapter would be a gigantic air attack.

But, among army people, one constantly hears this phrase uttered with decided advantage: "Not since 1066 has England had an enemy on her shores. Hitler will continue where the Normans left off."

This may be wishful thinking but there is no doubt that a spirit of supreme confidence pervades the army as it pours reserve after reserve into gaps opened in the French and Belgian defenses.

5 Times on Torpedoed Ships, He Lives to Tell the Stories

Baltimore—(T)—If the Allies ever decide to print a seaman's guide or "What to Do When Torpedoed," they would do well to pick Captain George H. Grant to write it. He's had five ships blown from under him.

Grant, Scotch-born American skipper, is here while his current command, the Musa, is being overhauled. During the World War he was in the British merchant marine.

A German raider sank the Norman Monarch in 1915 while Grant was second mate. The crew made it to the coast of Ireland. His next Indian Monarch, mine-dredged 700 miles from St. Helena.

In three boats the crew set out for safety. The captain's and first mate's boats headed for the coast of Africa. Grant's boat sailed for St. Helena. They made it in seven days, after rationing 30 gallons of water by the thumbful. The other two boats were never heard from. His next ship hit a mine in British

NAZIS AIM FOR CHANNEL, ALLIES PLAN PINNER MOVES

German forces veered their drive across northern France toward the British channel, as five Nazi mechanized divisions were reported driving westward between Peronne and Cambrai (swastika arrow). Continued successes were claimed by Nazis in Belgium (4) west of Antwerp and Brussels. According to reports from Basel, Switzerland, Allies were massing huge forces at Valenciennes (1), Reims (2) and Reims (3) for a pincer counter-offensive (white arrows) against the 50-mile deep German salient in French territory.

If German Claims are True, Allies are in Tough Spot but Still Can Turn Tide of Battle

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—(T)—The German claim of having smashed through the allied front and reached the vicinity of the English channel at Abbeville means, if it is substantiated, that the allies are in a precarious position.

It doesn't mean, however, that the allies have been crushed. It is almost folly to discuss this wholly confused situation as it now stands. We need much more information before we shall be able to pass judgment, and for that reason we should hold steady until we get that information.

However, there can be no harm in speculating on what the development may mean, provided it is understood between you and me that it is speculation without sufficient details at hand for a considered opinion.

The Germans say they have crushed the French Ninth army and captured the general staff with the commander, General Giraud. It isn't wholly clear just where the Ninth was holding at the moment of the crash, but it would seem that it had been blocking the route into the valley of the Somme, near Peronne, which is a famous military route to the coast.

Claim Amiens

The Nazi claim to have smashed on and captured Amiens and Abbeville. This would mean that they have achieved in at least one measure what the Kaiser's forces attempted in the spring of 1918 when they all but won the war in their great attack along the Somme.

What the Germans don't make clear is the strength of the forces employed in this thrust. We must assume that a comparatively small mechanized spearhead has been jammed through to the coast, to be followed by supporting troops.

In order to make this breakthrough stick, the Nazis must pour strong support through the gap in the allied line, else they will have merely tossed some mechanized contingents out into the blue to wander about on their own.

If it proves that the Germans have broken through in force, then what does it mean?

Forces Would Be Split

To my mind the worst aspect of the situation would be that the large allied forces in Belgium would be severed from the French armies to the south in France.

It is useless to speculate further on what might happen to the armies in Belgium, surrounded as they would be on three sides by the enemy. The possibilities are pretty nasty. In any case, at least it would take a masterful generalship to save a disaster.

The German breakthrough also presumably would ease the way to Paris and we can expect that the Nazi drive toward the capital, which had lost some of its momentum, now will be increased again.

If the Germans are able to get hold of the channel ports, especially on the northern coast at Calais, they will have achieved their object of getting back up against England for air-force operations. Calais is only 20 miles from England's Dover, and easy striking distance from the vast port of London, into whose docks and miles of inflammable stocks a huge slice of the world's shipping goes.

Watch Mussolini

Now is the time to watch Signor Mussolini. If in his mind the Fuehrer is approaching a decisive victory the Italian chieftain may decide that this is the accepted hour for Italy's entrance into the war.

An attack along the Italo-French border at this crucial moment would increase greatly the precariousness of the allied position.

In closing I want to emphasize again that this article is merely speculation based on the unconfirmed German claims and without sufficient details to make a considered opinion possible.

I can only add that even if the Nazi claims are true, it doesn't mean that the allies are out of commission.

This is a swell time for us to keep our shirts on and not get panicky.

GOP Governor of Vermont Outlines His Farm Program

It Will "Restore Purchasing Power of Farmer and Create Jobs"

Springfield, Ill.—(T)—Vermont's Republican governor, George D. Aiken, today outlined a seven-point farm program which, he said, would "restore the purchasing power of the farmer and create jobs in industry."

In a speech before the Mid-day Luncheon club, Governor Aiken said crops produced for domestic consumption should receive "effective and reasonable protection either by tariff or treaty."

"On those crops whose price is made in the world market, and on which direct protection would not avail, we would guarantee the farmer a fair return on that part of his crop needed for domestic consumption. He could grow as much more as he wished and take his chances on the world market for this surplus," Governor Aiken said.

He asserted that this policy would require a domestic allotment plan, "and sometimes a subsidy to be paid directly from the treasury instead of from proceesing taxes."

The Vermont governor favored continuance of the ever-normal granary principle with farmers and cooperatives receiving loans on their crops "at moderate prices on the sole condition that they must market these crops before they deteriorate."

Other points which he asserted "the farmers themselves would incorporate in a national agricultural program" were:

"A real instead of political soil conservation program; an end to competition from the uneconomic expansion of subsidized irrigation projects; expansion and improvement of general family farming as a means of living for thousands of families, assisted by expansion of the cooperative movement; more aggressive research for industrial agricultural products as a sound and effective method of eliminating crop surpluses; and expansion of the home market for agricultural products—most important of all is a market which can be created to a large degree only through industrial prosperity."

Plan Psychiatric Examinations for U. S. Emergency Army

Cincinnati, O.—(T)—Many potential deserters and shell-shock victims will be eliminated from Uncle Sam's emergency army before they ever don a uniform.

The American Psychiatric association was told today by its president, Dr. William D. Hoar, of Haverhill, Pa., of plans to examine every recruit as to his nerve as well as his physical capability.

He declared a military questionnaire now being circulated among psychiatrists, having as its objective "preparation for meeting the requirements of any national emergency."

The association, he said, is seeking to have trained psychiatrists available at every station to assist other medical examiners in determining the mental fitness of recruits.

There now are more than 30,000 cases of nervous disorder in veteran's hospitals as a result of the last war.

War Situation Today

Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg legions stormed today within sight of the Eiffel tower in Paris, 69 miles away, and scored a 25-mile break-through in the west to capture Amiens and Arras in the race to the English channel.

Small detachments of German motorcycle troops also penetrated to the outskirts of Abbeville, just 12 miles from the channel, a spokesman admitted in Paris.

The Nazi high command reported the capture of Abbeville. Premier Reynaud of France assailed the French high command for "incredible faults" which permitted German armored columns to inflict "disaster . . . total disorganization" on the French army defending the Meuse river front: the gateway to Paris.

Specifically, Reynaud blamed the high command for failure to blow up Meuse river bridges to stall the mechanized German onslaught.

Dramatically, he cried to a grave-faced French parliament: "France cannot die! If a miracle is needed to save France, I believe in miracles . . ."

Painting a dark picture, Reynaud admitted the Germans had seized Amiens, site of the historic cathedral of Notre Dame, and Arras in the drive to the channel.

In London an authorized spokesman termed the claims of the German communiqué "grossly exaggerated."

Loss of the 9,550-ton cruiser Effingham and the minelayer Princess Victoria was announced by the admiralty.

A French war ministry spokesman said the Germans were meeting "furious resistance" everywhere. He said there were indications the Nazi advance to the sea had been slowed up.

The drive to the west—apparently in quest of springboard bases for an attack on England itself—surpassed the westward gains scored by Kaiser Wilhelm's imperial army in all the World war.

The German high command reported that the Ninth French army, defending the Meuse front from Namur to Sedan, has been crushed in "the biggest attacking operation of all time."

By contrast, a British spokesman described the battle on the western front as "more confused than ever, with everybody behind everybody else's lines."

The Nazi high command reported that "General Giraud, hitherto commander of the Seventh French army, who assumed command over the Ninth army," had been captured with his general staff.

The Nazi advance from St. Quentin, which they captured Sunday ranged westward 63 miles to Abbeville and northwest to Arras, 38 miles from St. Quentin.

The strategic picture in the 12-day-old war in the west appeared as follows:

In wavering, often broken segments and lines only vaguely defined by lightning mechanized thrusts and far-reaching motorcycle advances, the fighting raged from Longwy—at the north end of France's main Maginot line—eastward 120 miles through Reims and Laon to St. Quentin. Laon is 75 miles northeast of Paris.

Thence, the "line" forked southwest through the historic Cremin des Dames battlefield of the World war to Amiens, 81 miles north of Paris, and 23 miles west to Abbeville.

North from the St. Quentin sector, the front zig-zagged west through Peronne and Arras, eastward to Valenciennes and then bulged northwest along the Schelde river in Belgium to Brussels, Ghent and Antwerp.

New Type Photo-Electric Cell to Measure Radiation

Evanston, Ill.—(T)—Atop a building at Northwestern University an instrument using a new type of photo-electric cell recorded today the intensity of ultra-violet solar radiation.

It was the initial phase of a proposed country-wide experiment to measure the intensity of the health-giving rays.

Dr. Robert J. Cashman, assistant professor of physics at Northwestern, designed the ray meter in collaboration with Dr. W. W. Coblenz, radiation physicist in the national bureau of standards at Washington.

The meter looks like a miniature observatory. Its photo-electric cell or phototube was said to be "more sensitive to the biologically effective band of the ultra-violet wave lengths than any tube previously devised."

Impulses from the ultra-violet part of the spectrum are recorded by the meter and the readings are photographed at hourly intervals by an attached camera. The scientists estimated that the average yearly amount of biologically effective ultra-violet radiation arriving at any point could be accurately determined only after several years of experiments and study of meter readings.

Although other instruments in use measure ultra-violet rays, the one designed at Northwestern was said to be the first that gives a record of the intensity of the rays arriving from any point in the sky.

The biologically effective portion of the ultra-violet ray band produces chemical changes making vitamin D and makes possible the assimilation of bone and teeth building chemicals in the body.

Aldermen to Hear Garbage Disposal Proposal Tonight

Report Is Expected From Works Board, Road Committee

Kaukauna — Aldermen will receive and consider a report of the board of public works and road committee in regard to a garbage disposal system as the council meets tonight at the municipal building.

The board and committee, at a meeting May 12, discussed a disposal system, and decided to recommend that the city work out a plan whereby garbage would be collected by city workers and equipment. Two private offers to handle garbage have been received.

A report is expected from Alderman George Luebke, chairman of the committee on licenses, on whether any Kaukauna taverns are operating in violation of the law. Mrs. Anton Services, whose request for a liquor license the council has consistently denied, charged at the May 7 session that one tavern in the city did not have the sanitary facilities required by state statute. Luebke said another inspection of the premises would be made.

Dog Problem

The ordinance committee has been instructed to look over the city's ordinance regulating dogs and report on the possibility of enforcing it more strictly. Mayor William J. Gentler told the aldermen he had received many complaints of damages from dogs.

The board of health has organized since the last council meeting, and its actions will be made known to the public. The public health and education committee will bring up the question of a swimming pool. With the new power project canal cutting across the quarry the favorite swimming spot of many summers is no longer available.

A committee appointed at the last meeting will report on efforts to persuade the county board to build a county road barn in Kaukauna. Paving of Desnoyer street will be up for consideration.

Kaukauna Museum Display Arranged

Historical Exhibit Is Part Of City Sesquicentennial Program

Kaukauna — Sidelines on Kaukauna's history usually available to only a few people have been assembled for everyone to see in a museum on the first floor of the municipal building. The museum is one of the projects in connection with the city's sesquicentennial celebration. Lewis F. Nelson and Walter P. Hagman are co-chairmen of the museum committee.

The objects on display include a 141-year-old dinner plate of Andalusian china, loaned by the Rev. L. R. Cleveland. The plate is from the wedding dinner of Benjamin Cleveland, married at Stoverston in 1759. Stoverston was that part of Kaukauna now known as Strassburg.

The Rev. Mr. Cleveland has loaned for display another article seldom seen, an old fashioned back scratcher, E. J. Kenney, Elm street, has sent a straight edge razor which has seen 100 years of service.

On view is the old fire trumpet used to inform firemen of a blaze. Many pictures of Kaukauna groups and industries of years ago are included in the exhibit, as well as school and library catalogs.

Some Things Wilson Said in 1919 are Proving Prophetic

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington—Woodrow Wilson, in the course of his speaking campaign of September, 1919, on behalf of the League of Nations, seasoned his remarks with some paragraphs which today are of more interest than they were then. Mr. Wilson, of course, had a dreamy faith in the pledges of nations and the efficacy of scorn, and his exhortations all rang with a rather querulous anger at those skeptical men who did not share his confidence and would not commit the United States to the responsibilities which he would have had the nation assume. The wisdom or folly of his proposals can only be debated, never determined, but they were rejected by the people to whom he carried his case, who then, having made their decision, got plastered on jump-stiddy and kicked gin and went lurching into the era of wonderful nonsense, with a heavy nonny-nonny.

On Sept. 5, 1919, Mr. Wilson stopped at St. Louis and, in a speech at the Coliseum, said:

"What did the Germans do when they got into Belgium? Every piece of machinery that could be taken away was taken away. If it was too big to take away, experts directed the way in which it should be injured so that it could never be used again, and this, because there were textile industries and iron industries in Belgium which the Germans hated the Belgians for having. This war, in its inception, was a commercial and industrial war. It was not a political war."

"Very well, then, if we must stand apart and be the hostile rivals of the rest of the world, we must be ready, physically, for anything that comes. We must have a great standing army. We must see to it that every man in America is trained to arms. We must see to it that there are munitions and guns enough for an army that means a mobilized nation. That they are not laid up in store but that they are kept up to date, ready for use tomorrow. That we are a nation in arms. Because you cannot be unfriendly to everybody without being friendly to you. And what does that mean? Reduction of taxes? No. Not only the continuation of the present taxes but the increase of the present taxes."

Said It Meant Change In System Of Government

"And it means something very much more serious than that," he continued. "We can stand that so far as the expense is concerned, but what is much more serious, we have got to have the sort of organization which is the only kind of organization that can handle arms of that sort. We may have what we please of the German government, that has been destroyed, but it was the only sort of government that could handle an armed nation. You cannot handle an armed nation if it is democratic, because democracies do not go to war that way. You have got to have a concentrated, militaristic organization of government to run a nation of that sort. You have got to think of the president not as the chief counselor elected for a little while, but as the man meant constantly and every day to be the commander-in-chief of the army and navy, ready to order them to any part of the world where the threat of war is a menace to his own people. And you can not do that under free debate. You have the alternative, armed isolation or peaceful partnership."

Safety Council Opens Campaign To Curb Hitch-Hiking in County

The Outagamie County Safety council this week asked the cooperation of police departments of all cities, towns and villages in the county in a safety drive to eliminate traffic hazards that confront young people of the county.

Every law enforcement officer is expected to participate in the move which has as one of its main objects the discouragement of hitch-hiking. Action by the safety council was prompted by continual complaints of motorists about young hitch-hikers who persist in coming out from the curbs and terraces in town and from the highway shoulders in the country onto the streets and roads in an effort to flag down cars for a ride.

According to reports, some of the young hitch-hikers become so bold and daring that they frequently endanger their own lives and those of others. Car drivers have complained because they often are confronted with a situation where a car is approaching from the opposite direction, and they therefore cannot swing to the left, and the hitch-hikers refuse to draw back off the street or road. The driver, then, has no alternative but to practically brake to a stop in order to avoid an accident.

Strict Enforcement

Strict enforcement of the law pertaining to hitch-hiking practices is being advocated by the safety council in an attempt to eliminate such situations. Most flagrant cases have been reported along old Highway 41 between Kaukauna and Appleton.

The state law reads: "It shall be unlawful for any person to be in the roadway for the purpose of soliciting a ride from the operator of any private vehicle."

The safety council is asking the cooperation of law enforcement officers in acting now to prevent serious or fatal traffic accidents due to hitch-hiking practices.

Enforcement of the law is as important as engineering and education in the safety program, the safety council pointed out. The three must be inseparable if the safety program is to become effective and preserve human life, the drive announcement declared.

TRACY PLAYS ROLE OF EDISON

Bringing to the screen a true-life picture of one of the most beloved American characters of all time in a story that is thrillingly dramatic, "Edison, the Man," opens at the Rio theater Thursday.

The picture stars Spencer Tracy, accredited with being the leading portrayer of real life characters because of his earlier performances as Father Flanagan in "Boys Town," Henry M. Stanley in "Stanley and Livingstone" and Major Robert Rogers in "Northwest Passage."

Tracy is surrounded by a stellar cast including Rita Johnson, Lynne Overman, Charles Coburn, Gene Lockhart and dozens of other well-known actors.

"An Angel From Texas," with Eddie Albert, Rosemary Lane, Wayne Morris, Jane Wyman, Ronald Reagan, and Ruth Terry in the leading roles, is co-featured on the same program.

Dewey More Popular Than Farley, 'Trial Heat' Shows

By Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—With Postmaster General James A. Farley reputedly holding a substantial number of second-choice pledges from various delegations to the Democratic National Convention, the question has arisen in the minds of Washington observers and political experts as to how well Farley would run.

While Mr. Farley has not, of course, been given the buildup which would follow if he actually obtained the Democratic nomination, trial heat studies just completed by the American Institute of Public Opinion indicate that he would trail Thomas E. Dewey—one of the leading GOP candidates—in a Presidential election at the present time.

In a hypothetical race voters in the 48 states were asked: "If Dewey runs for President on the Republican ticket against Farley on the Democratic ticket, which one would you prefer?" The replies were:

FAVOR DEWEY ..... 56%
FAVOR FARLEY ..... 42%
Approximately one person in seven (15%) said that he was undecided about his choice in such a contest.

Summary Of Election

Trial Heats To Date
ROOSEVELT ..... 33%
VANDENBERG ..... 47%
HULL ..... 58%
VANDENBERG ..... 42%
ROOSEVELT ..... 58%
TAFT ..... 42%

HULL	60%
TAFT	40%
GARNER	51%
TAFT	49%
ROOSEVELT	52%
DEWEY	48%
HULL	51%
DEWEY	49%
DEWEY	58%
FARLEY	42%

The present study is the eighth in a series of trial heats which have been conducted in recent weeks. Preceding tests showed Roosevelt, Hull and Garner leading various Republican opponents by margins of from 60-40 to 51-49.

Farley Would Carry South

In all discussions of the strength of a Farley candidacy, political observers have been quick to trace a parallel with the campaign of Al

Hobart District Makes Decoration Day Plans

Royalton — This year will be the twenty-eighth year in which Decoration day has been observed by the people of the Hobart rural school district, with a program at the schoolhouse and the decoration of soldiers' and other graves in the little cemetery nearby.

Each year the little white frame building has been filled to overflowing with not only local people, but folk from distant town and cities who are drawn there and to the little cemetery.

The president of the day at this year's celebration is Donald V. Casey, grandson of the late Veteran James Casey of the Civil war.

MOVES TO SAUKVILLE

Hilbert — Mrs. Joseph Marx, Sr., who recently sold her home on S. Seventh street to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heise, left here Monday afternoon for Saukville where she will make her home with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Nic Marx. Mrs. Marx has been a resident of this vicinity for more than 80 years and resided in Hilbert for more than 58 years.

Smith in 1928. Interestingly enough, Smith lost to Herbert Hoover by exactly the same margin as is indicated in the present Dewey-Farley survey.

But the survey shows that—unlike Al Smith—Jim Farley would run up a big majority south of the Mason-Dixon line. It is not Farley's weakness in the South but rather Mr. Dewey's comparative strength in the North and Middle West which account for the result shown today.

Section by section the vote in today's survey is as follows:

	Favoring Farley	Favoring Dewey
New England	38%	62%
Mid-Atlantic	39	51
East Central	36	64
West Central	38	62
South	63	37
West	40	60

In the Smith-Hoover election of 1928 Al Smith received only 48% percent of the vote in the thirteen Southern states.

HYSTERIA MUST NOT RULE AMERICA

We are going to require even plainer and more pointed talking about the European war in America than ever before.

War hysteria increased noticeably in our land recently due to our emotional revulsion against the sufferings of innocent peoples combined with misstatement and exaggeration in addresses from important personages.

There is no logical reason for hysteria. Anyone who thinks the situation over calmly may give all the sympathy he holds for those in distress but should not become unduly excited about the European war coming to these shores.

As Colonel Lindbergh on Sunday's broadcast said:

"We are in danger of war today, not because European people have attempted to interfere with America but because American people have attempted to interfere with Europe . . . It is true that bombing planes can be built with sufficient range to cross the Atlantic and return but the cost is high, the target large, and the military effectiveness small. The advantage lies with us, and great armies must still cross oceans by ship. We need not fear a foreign invasion unless American people bring it on by their own quarreling and meddling with affairs abroad. Our eyes should not search beyond the horizon for problems which lie at our feet."

Let us go about the work of modernizing our defenses and preparations coolly and effectively. Let us get this hysteria out of our veins. Let us also realize that while it breeds itself naturally in certain quarters it is poured out as a poison gas to benumb the sensibilities to certain political conditions that should be corrected in this country.

And let us keep our eyes upon the European war because from it we may learn how thoroughly effective are our great fortresses known as the two oceans. If the Germans take certain of the channel ports in France they will be about 23 miles from England. Even if they are limited to the Belgian channel ports the distance will be but 70 miles. Yet that comparatively narrow stretch of ocean, nothing like the 3,000 miles that separates us from Europe, will make it impossible to conquer England by invasion unless the English take on a Rip Van Winkle and scuttle their navy besides.

Granted that Hitler has an abnormal, Napoleonic lust for power, he and the inner council who rule the Reich are not exactly mad men in the asylum sense of that term. Germany seeks power in Europe where it can hold that power. It knows the limitations upon any conquest in this Western Hemisphere far more than the gentlemen in the East who throw up their hands in hysteria.

Mr. Roosevelt's recent address contained some very foolish implications. He sought to give the American people the idea that they were in imminent danger of invasion from the air. Militarily a bombing raid is of no value whatever unless the confusion which follows it may be wrought into advantage by an infantry attack. An airplane is not a self-contained military weapon. It is an auxiliary arm employed to prepare the way for invasion by other means.

No foreign power would think of directing an air attack against the United States unless it was capable of following such attack by a land attack.

Prepare we must. And we will. But who shall prepare? Shall it be those who dropped eight billions for alleged national defense in the last seven years down some lost rat holes?

Shall our preparation be made by those who are actually designing it for the defense of the United States or those who are preparing themselves to take part in another trip of idealism to Europe?

Let us build an army, navy and an air force capable of standing off any foreign attack that might possibly be conceived but let us likewise forget this silly chatter about our participating in the stopping of Hitler and another of those 1917 follies. And above everything let us be alert to our real menace and keep it before us always—the menace of being lured by crazy reasoning into active participation in the inferno in Europe to which we contributed by our blunders of 23 years ago.

Colonel Lindbergh put that danger plainly when he said:

"The only reason we are in danger of becoming involved in this war is because there are powerful elements in America who desire us to take part. They represent a small minority . . . but they control most of the machinery of influence and propaganda. They seize every opportunity to push us closer to the edge.

"The underlying character of America is our true defense. Until it awakes and takes the reins in hand once more, the production of airplanes, cannon and battleships is of secondary importance."

"We cannot aid others until we have first placed our own country in a position of spiritual and material leadership and strength."

We have in America today dangers quite as great, or even greater, than Hitlerism.

We have Socialism which always leads the parade to decay and croaks out the first note of destruction. We have a financial policy that spells ruin. And we have in important positions in our country a motley crew of jabbering crackpots, comparable to the Blum ministry in France which, if France falls, contributed more to her ruin than German arms.

HE WOULD LIKE THE FIFTH COLUMN

The case of Leo Vitala is only one of many thousands in this country as it barges along on its way of spineless justice.

Vitala is a Chicago bootlegger, former convict and alien pursuing his life's ambition of making suckers out of Americans.

In a recent trial at Chicago Vitala demonstrated how for eighteen years he had made lots of money along criminal paths and that when federal agents destroyed his stills he even went on public relief in an angry moment at the government.

But finally came the day when the FBI and the federal courts caught up with Vitala which means that he stood before the federal judge convicted of a whole array of offenses, a little disturbed at possibilities but still smiling because he was pretty sure that America was a dumb mutt. Before the judge were facts and evidence. Vitala did not deny that for 18 long years he had been a professional criminal excepting for those periods when he was serving time, and since his political pull was good those periods had been small. In fact Vitala was indicted for committing one of his crimes while he was actually in prison. That offense consisted of conspiring with others to carry on the gang's criminal activities even while the leader was in a cell. There was plenty of evidence that Vitala was proud of his record and often boasted of his ability to evade the law. The federal judge said in sentencing him:

"This defendant has been a liability and abused the hospitality and privileges of a government which harbored and protected him. In short his hand has been against the government. His record indicates that he is a confirmed hoodlum."

But, of course, the judge could not issue an order of deportation much as he would like to have done so.

Deportation under our law is a political weapon. No one has that right except our magnificent skirted secretary of labor. Judges and courts must not be given too great rights. If they were, criminals might even find the going tough.

TAKING THE GAMBLE OUT OF GAMBLING

Askansas, like Florida, Indiana and California, has a Janus-faced policy in respect to gambling.

It doesn't want its own people to gamble but as far as visitors are concerned, and particularly at a great resort like Hot Springs, their foibles are overlooked.

But recently the supreme court of that state was staggered by a knotty problem. A man who had gambled and lost took violent hold upon the man who had gambled and won, and filched from him the wad of bills of which he had been despoiled. The one so unceremoniously attacked had the other arrested for robbery. And the supreme court came to the conclusion that the arrest was for the wrong offense. An arrest might lie, it said, for assault and battery but not for robbery. The winner had no right to win under the law, said the court. The loser, under the same law, had a right to sue for what he had lost. How, therefore, could it be said that in repossessing himself of the property to which he was entitled he had taken by violence something properly in another's custody?

It is all very interesting and complex. But an information service is at fault which doesn't inform us the nature of the game and what charge of slippery action indicted the loser to tear the winner's pocket open. The general public is entitled to know whether this was draw poker, stud, bridge, a rolling of the dice, or a bet on the nags. For the general public,—despite any and all laws,—wants to keep abreast of all the new tricks and claimed tricks of the moss-covered profession that still insists you can get something for nothing.

Alaska's 1930 census showed a population of nearly 60,000, and a gain of 10,000 is expected in the current count.

The population of the Falkland Islands, British Crown colony in the South Atlantic, is about 2,500.

There are eleven Bostons in the United States.

Peasants own one-sixteenth of all arable land in Italy.

There are 661 keys and over 3,000 reefs in the Bahama Islands.

The Chautauqua Institution was established in 1874.

The U. S. holds more than 51,000,000 acres of land in trust for Indians.

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—Only those around the White House knew it, but the president's $1,182,000,000 emergency defense program was only about one-third of that urged on him by his army and navy chiefs.

Their original program called for a total of $3,000,000,000, of which approximately $2,000,000,000 was for immediate expenditure; the rest to be authorized for future outlays.

A large part of the additional money was proposed for expanding ship-building facilities and the construction of navy vessels already authorized but for which no money has yet been voted. Another big chunk was for enlargement of plane building equipment by erecting government plants in strategic sections of the country.

These plans presumably would have built fighting planes under patent licenses from private owners. The plan was particularly designed to solve the "bottleneck" problem of large-scale production of airplane motors.

Roosevelt vetoed these and other proposals on the ground that they would lead to congressional controversy, thereby delay the urgent phases of the program. He thought the swift action was to be taken, the funds will be used to lay the ground work for the vast air force of 50,000 planes that he envisioned.

High on the list is the immediate construction of five new army pilot training centers. At present the army has only one such school, Randolph Field, Ill.

Under the accelerated program initiated last fall, Randolph is turning out 2,400 pilots a year as compared to 500 previously. With five more schools the expected output would be about 12,000 pilots annually.

UNDER THE DOME

The president's right-hand aide during the three hectic days of drafting the defense program was Secretary Harry Hopkins. He moved to the White House and like Roosevelt stayed up one night until 3 a. m. . . . One thing that struck Roosevelt forcibly during delivery of his message to congress was the silence of the Republican side. A number of Republican senators, sitting in the front rows, joined in the applause, but the representatives did not. One exception was Representative James Wadsworth of New York. . . . Going down the house elevator to his car, the president commented on this to members of the White House staff. . . .

Three senators who did not join in the applause when Roosevelt entered were Hiram Johnson of California, Harry Byrd of Virginia, and Holman of Oregon.

WESTERN HEMISPHERE DEFENSE

These are days when the United States is supposed to be bending every effort to coordinate the defense of the western hemisphere; days when President Roosevelt impresses upon congress the vulnerability of the Panama canal and Latin America to airplane attack.

Bolled down to cold fact, however, the United States has done very little toward cooperating with Latin America on western hemisphere defense.

For instance, four years ago Brazil asked the United States to permit the leasing or sale to South American neighbors of decrepit destroyers rusting in Philadelphia and San Francisco harbors since the World war. But congress threw up its hands in horror of rearmament and said no.

Then in March, 1939, a bill was introduced in congress permitting Latin American nations to build ships in U. S. navy yards and buy certain equipment from the U. S. army and navy which would not conflict with our own national defense—all paid for in cash.

The bill passed the house of representatives but hung up in the senate. And there it still hangs. In fact, it has been stymied for a year by only one senator.

LATIN AMERICAN CRITICISM

Last summer, just before congress adjourned, when the bill was about to come up in the senate, Senator Vandenberg objected. He even threatened to filibuster if the administration tried to pass the bill. So the senate adjourned.

At this session, the Pan-American defense bill is on the senate unanimous consent calendar. And every time it comes up, Vandenberg objects.

Meanwhile Latin American nations, not understanding the American parliamentary system, by which one man sometimes can thwart the rest of congress, criticize the United States for talking western hemisphere defense but giving absolutely no cooperation toward it.

Note—The senate foreign relations committee also has buried the Argentine sanitary convention which permits the entry of dressed lamb from Patagonia, the Antarctic end of Argentina, where hoof and mouth disease does not exist. Ratification of this treaty would mean the purchase of only a small dibble of lamb by this country, but politically would mean a tremendous boost in Argentine friendship for the United States.

A Verse for Today

FRIENDSHIP'S KINGDOM

There is a kingdom
Established on the earth
Where every heart beats
Sincerely, with true worth.

Customs have vanished
Of tranquil, stately grace.
Old ways of living
Have changed with time and place.

But, in this kingdom
There still are golden hearts.
Faith does not alter.
The day with beauty starts.

Outside the palings
May rage the fires of war,
But flames of conquest
Sleep at my kingdom's door.

Ignoble longings
Have never entered here.
No schemes of barter,
Profane the atmosphere.

There is a kingdom
Of everlasting fame.
Peace is its watchword,
And Friendship is its name.

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—If the rest of the country is like Washington, no man alive is under more critical microscope than Winston Churchill.

Churchill, who, as Prime Minister of Great Britain, has, for the first time in nearly four decades of public prominence, got the reigns of the empire completely in his hands.

Scouting around the capital, I have found a few persons who know him intimately or well and have collected a hodge-podge that may serve for an introduction to the man who will guide the destinies of the Allies against a Nazi war machine which is rolling with monotonous success over Europe's little nations.

The 66-year-old Prime Minister, whose trademark is a long, black cigar, is fat, elderly, stodgy. . . . But his looks are deceiving. . . . He is tempestuous, meteoric and combines recklessness with traditional English tenacity. Lord Asquith, under whom he served in one of his nine cabinet posts, said, "Winston has genius, but not judgment." . . . You couldn't convince the English people of that.

He's Half American

It's typical of Churchill that when Sir Neville Chamberlain was attacked for withdrawal of the troops from Norway, Churchill came to his defense and temporarily, at least, prevented the political rout of his superior. . . . Yet Churchill, in the first World war, was the man who showed that if the Scandinavian countries could be brought in on the side of the Allies, the war would be over in less than 15 months.

As far as I can find out, without reading a history of the British Empire, he's the first Prime Minister who is half American. . . . His mother was Jenny Jerome, of New York.

The men who have influenced his life and for whom he has had much veneration include his father, Lord Randolph Churchill, Lord Hugh Lloyd George, Sir Francis Mowatt, a conservative of the strict Victorian school; and Bourke Cockran, a Tammany Tiger of New York's roaring Nineties.

Churchill once was an honored guest of Kaiser Wilhelm II, but he has since become the symbol of everything in the British people the Germans hate and fear. There's no love lost on his side. From the first, he has been one of Hitler's severest critics.

He Just Missed

Unlike many statesmen, Churchill has been under front-line fire. In the middle years of the World war, he left the government to become a duelist after two hours of letter-writing just a few minutes before it was blown to smithereens.

For the first 11 years after Great Britain's armed forces took up airplanes, he was chief of one branch or another of aviation. When he was first chief of the Royal Naval Air Force, he had five planes, five pilots. For some years, he piloted a plane himself. . . . but gave it up after several crashes.

He's a violent enemy of red tape . . . refuses to abide by the petty regulations of minor officials. He works from 9:30 a. m. to 1 or 2 a. m. . . . often reminds associates that work and pleasure are the same thing. Nevertheless, he has a hobby. . . . oil painting. Churchill also is an amateur bricklayer. . . . he has written a number of books, correspondence and novels.

He's an avid collector of cartoons in which he appears and chuckles over all of them (a little hobby out of which Hermann Goering also derives a lot of pleasure).

If he could be said to have one quality for which even his most outspoken enemies have great respect, it is courage. Not even the Nazis ever have questioned that.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, May 20, 1930

Evacuation of the Rhineland by the French army of occupation that day entered upon its last phase. With homeward movement of the first of 40,000 troops, complete evacuation was scheduled before June 20.

There were 55,667 people living within an 8-mile radius in Appleton, according to figures of the chamber of commerce compiled from census returns for various cities and villages. The number was an increase of 11,863 persons in the Appleton trading area.

Activities of the Clio club came to a close Monday afternoon with a luncheon and election of officers for the coming year. Mrs. John Wilson was elected president. Mrs. Fred Ek was named vice president; Mrs. John Ross Frampton was to be secretary and Mrs. Peter Thom was chosen treasurer.

The government of the Netherlands had sent a note to Germany protesting against the sinking of the Lusitania. The contents were substantially the same as those of the American communication. Italian had penetrated Austria. King Victor Emmanuel was at the front.

BEYOND THE CHANNEL LIES ENGLAND

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Republicans who read about the proceedings and independent observers who were there noted with great interest the frank admission of several of the highest of the Progressive leaders at the Wisconsin Rapid birthday party Sunday that the Republican administration has made political up-state through its state government economy program.

The Progressives talk about the firing of state employees and the reduction of departmental budgets with blithe scorn, but at the same time they are realistic enough to recognize what the Republicans have recognized, that Governor Heil has made political hay in the crucial rural counties by firing a substantial number of state employees, and by shrewdly managing to get big streams of publicity about it over a period of many months.

HOW MUCH?

Since it is clear that the Heil economy program, and its success or failure, will be one of the foremost topics for political debate in the campaign which will shortly begin, an examination of the record as represented in the number of state employees released from the public payroll, will be pertinent.

Now it is difficult to present the true picture of the number of state employees on a comparative basis, because of fluctuations in conditions in state employment by seasons. It is possible that an outbreak of forest fires during one administration may bring top-heavy payrolls in comparison with the succeeding regime. Or one governor may sponsor larger highway projects or may be forced to hire more highway employees because of weather conditions.

521 LESS

State records show, however, that on March 31, the last figure available, the state government under Heil's control had 521 fewer names on its pay list than on December 31, 1938, when the defeated LaFollette administration left office.

Note too that if the comparison between spring and mid-winter is unfair, the figures will probably be weighed in favor of the LaFollette total, because the highway and conservation departments, among others, of necessity have a larger personnel in spring than in the dead of winter.

That figure—which represents a monetary difference of about $80,000 a month, or almost $2,000,000 during a biennium—will doubtless surprise some people who may have believed from Progressive representations that Heil's firings have been confined to a few underpaid charwomen with negligible financial effect. And it may also disappoint others who possibly gathered the impression, either through Republican administration publicity releases or from Governor Heil's speeches, that several thousand state employees at the very least have been dismissed.

PETERSON FOR SENATE

About a year ago it was suggested in this space that R. W. Peterson, then Heil's quarterback in the state assembly and now chairman of the public service commission, would become a candidate for the United States senate this year. Now it appears that Peterson can be considered an active candidate, although his formal announcement may be delayed a few weeks.

The prospect of Peterson's candidacy against Senator LaFollette is interesting because it would present a clear-cut labor issue to the voters this fall. Peterson is the author of the new Illinois administration labor statute, and will be bitterly opposed by every leader of organized labor in Wisconsin (every man of whom fought against Peterson's labor bill angrily and relentlessly in the last legislature. LaFollette in the U. S.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

BRAN

It is sad but true that the day so by pronouncing it so is past, although a doctor could make a thing of some of the big shots in the profession still try to work the old racket on the public.

For example, the propaganda of the American Medical Association only three or four years ago branding injection treatment of hernia a "dangerous procedure", wretched stuff obviously composed by a facile writer who had no idea what the modern treatment of hernia is.

The course of events in the past two or three years has compelled the omniscient oracle of the A. M. A. to revise that attitude, and now the "dangerous procedure" is perforce recognized as a proper and efficient method of treating hernia in suitable cases. The great minds of the medical politicians who make most of the noise ought to realize by now that you can't make a thing so by pronouncing it so. This is 1940, not 1840.

Since the use of wheat bran as a laxative food came into popularity the old timers who still yearn to pronounce the verdict of medical science upon everything issued various warnings to the public about the hypothetical dangers of eating bran. I could name names, have done so, but it scarcely seems necessary now. One of the hypothetical dangers some of the eminent specialists ventured to ascribe to the practice of eating bran is obstruction of the intestine by bran impaction. In a review of the entire medical literature of the world Drs. George Kopstein and Bernard Fanus were able to find three actual cases of the kind. In three of these cases the impaction was preceded by pathological conditions which were primarily responsible for the obstruction such as stricture, adhesions from a former surgical operation, and a perforating amebic ulcer. In one case the history failed to make clear the nature of the primary trouble, although the patient had two previous operations. These investigators concluded that the eating of bran is not likely to cause intestinal obstruction.

Committee Votes To Ask Proposals On Swimming Pool

Public Hearing to Discuss Site Scheduled Monday Evening

The municipal swimming pool bandwagon moved forward another step last night when members of Mayor Goodland's special pool committee voted to advertise for proposals on a pool not to exceed $75,000 in cost.

The committee set 9 o'clock Monday morning June 10, to hear engineers and architects outline their plans and specifications on various types of pools.

Mayor Goodland was elected chairman and Edward E. Sager, city clerk was chosen secretary of the committee which includes the board of public works, the council's recreation committee and a citizens advisory group.

A public hearing was scheduled for 7:30 Monday evening to give people living in the vicinity of Erb park an opportunity to voice their opinions of the council's selection of the park as a site for the pool. A petition, signed by 80 persons, against the use of Erb park has been filed with the council and other petitions, in favor of Erb park as the site, are being circulated.

The proposals requested will not necessarily be the final ones but will be studied to give the committee an idea of the types of pools possible for the money the city intends to spend. No plans for financing the pool were discussed.

Committee Awards 3 Contracts for Hauling Stone From Quarries

The highway commission of the Outagamie county board of supervisors at a meeting yesterday rejected six bids on the construction of a storage building at the county garage.

The committee voted to advertise for a metal building to house machinery.

Contracts were awarded to three firms for the hauling of crushed stone from county quarries to town roads. Seven bids were submitted.

Ed Murphy, Seymour, was given the contract to haul stone from the Dreisau quarry, town of Seymour, at 32 cents a yard and from the Van Hoof quarry, town of Freedom, at 42 cents a yard.

Landwehr and Hackel, Seymour, who quoted 42 cents a yard, were given the contract for the Hodgins quarry at Hortonville. R. W. Murphy, Black Creek, will transport the material from the Black Creek limestone company at 39 1/2 cents a yard.

The committee allowed bills for materials amounting to $1,251.43.

Hitler's Sister Visiting in City; So the Rumors Have It

If rumors in Appleton grow much more ridiculous, don't be surprised to hear reports of enemy parachute troops landing in Pierce park.

Apparently stemming from the European war and stories of "fifth column" activities abroad, some rather wild tales are circulating about this quiet city in the Fox river valley. Here are a few choice legends that have been heard here and there about the town:

Adolf Hitler's sister is visiting in Appleton. This rumor even got as far as naming the address of the home where she was staying. A Post-Crescent reporter, with tongue in his cheek, called the man living at the address and told him about the rumor. The guy is still in stitches. "Haven't seen anybody around here answering to that description," he said.

The federal bureau of investigation is looking into un-American activities in Appleton. Some loose talk has been drifting up and down certain streets would have you believe that the G-men are liable to take a peek into your diary any minute.

Another quaint yarn concerns the arrest of a spy who operated in an Appleton machine shop and was regularly employed there.

Then there is the story about a big Nazi rally Saturday night in the town of Grand Chute.

The whole situation grows even more humorous when it is reported that these rumors have been taken rather seriously in certain quarters, despite the pleas for "level-headed" thinking that have been made by American leaders.

Progressives Toy With Proposal of Recall Movements

Attacks Would be Directed at 'Reactionary' State Senators

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Discussion by ranking Progressive party leaders of recall movements against certain "reactionary" members of the Wisconsin state senate who do not face reelection contests this year adds a new wrinkle to the 1940 state political campaign which already promise to be complicated and unusually bitter.

Progressive strategists are anxious to make their challenge this year as powerful and dramatic as possible, in order to assist the efforts of Senator Robert M. La Follette, who is fully conscious that his contest will be a difficult one, to be reelected for a third 6-year term.

The recall talk is reinforced by the realization that the Progressive candidate for governor, even if he wins in November, will be powerless in the capital without a legislative majority to support him.

Appeals to Teachers Because conservative Republicans and Democrats in districts in which the Progressives have been traditionally weak are running for reelection this year, and because some of the seats representing normal Progressive counties are now held by Republicans who have served only half their terms, a recall campaign against some of the latter appears to be the most practical method of assuring a chance of a Progressive administration in the capital in 1941.

If recall plans actually materialize, they will in all likelihood be directed against such men as Jesse Peters of Hartford, Amrose Collier of Neocada, and Jos Miller of Muscoda, who hold seats which in previous years were represented by Progressives. The three men defeated, respectively, Frank Panzer, Earl Leverich, and E. M. Rowlands, all high ranking Progressives, in the 1938 Republican landslide.

It is also possible that such senators as Taylor Brown of Oshkosh, a bitterly anti-LaFollette Republican and one of the most regular of the Hill supporters in the last legislature, will be subjected to attack through recall petitions.

Meanwhile the Wisconsin Education association announced that the number of young people graduating from high school this spring is greater than in 1939. More than 31,000 graduates will get their diplomas this spring, it was said, although last year the number was only about 30,600. The 1940 total, it was declared, will be the highest number of high school graduates in a single year in the history of the state. There were more girls than boys last year, the association disclosed in an analysis of the statistics, because more boys of high school age quit school to seek employment.

The average age of high school graduates in Wisconsin is between 17 and 18 years. More than 82 per cent of all graduates fall within the two age groups.

Fair Wednesday, Weatherman Says

Thermometer at 76 in City Today; Cloudy, Cooler Tonight

Cloudy and cooler tonight, with fair weather Wednesday, is the forecast for Appleton and the state in general issued today by the Milwaukee bureau.

The weatherman's prediction for cooler temperatures today was not borne out as the thermometer climbed to its highest level of several days, reading 76 degrees at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

For the 24-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark in the city was 71 and the lowest 35, according to Wisconsin Michigan Power company charts. The maximum was recorded at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the minimum at 1:30 this morning.

Phoenix, with 55, and Yellowstone, with 50, turned in the high and low temperatures in the nation yesterday.

Notes between the United States and Germany and anti-German riots in England and South Africa—the aftermath of the sinking of the Lusitania May 7—also made news during the middle of May, 1915.

In a wave of indignation over the sinking of the liner, mobs in Johannesburg, South Africa, wrecked scores of buildings owned by Germans or German sympathizers. Anti-German riots in England caused that country to intern all adult alien enemy males. Most of them gave themselves up voluntarily for protection.

The note which the United States sent to the German government on the Lusitania sinking declared in part:

"American citizens act within their indisputable rights in taking their ships and traveling wherever their business calls them upon the high seas and exercise those rights in what should be the well justified confidence that their lives will not be endangered by acts done in clear violation of universally acknowledged international obligation, and certainly in the confidence that their own government will sustain them in the exercise of their rights."

Germany was asked to "take immediate steps to prevent the recurrence of anything so obviously subversive of the principles of warfare for which the German government has in the past so wisely and firmly contended."

Coalition Is Not Cure to Economic Ills, Writer Says

Politics Prevail Despite Defense Needs, Lawrence Asserts

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Talk of a coalition cabinet with Republicans in cabinet posts has reached the point where President Roosevelt is seriously considering such changes as will give the appearance, at any rate, of non-partisanship in the management of the national government.

But to establish confidence among the nation's business and industrial managers, something more than political window-dressing is needed nowadays. Even if the president chose half his cabinet from the ranks of the Republican party, it would not go to the root of the domestic controversies which have been slowing up production and making America's economic machine lopsided. For the real power of government nowadays isn't vested in the cabinet officers at all, but in the many boards, bureaus and commissions which have the authority to regulate and, by means of regulation, to impair the efficiency of business.

If the president were to announce a return to the plain intent of congress when it created bi-partisan boards and commissions, and if he were to give representation to minority as well as majority viewpoints on economic issues, there would be a different story to tell.

The trouble is that the reported plan of the president to put some Republicans in his cabinet touches the political but not the economic issues of the day. There is unfortunately too much politics in our national government anyway. Even in the midst of what has been portrayed as a serious crisis in world affairs, the spokesmen of the administration are continuing, on the one hand, their demagogic promises that "labor standards will not be lowered," while on the other hand private assurances are being given that the request of the army and navy for a modification of the Walsh-Healey government contracts law and the demand of manufacturers for more flexibility in the operation of the wage and hour law will be granted.

Even with national defenses at stake, the political point of view prevails, and rather than alienate union labor or its leaders, who have a pressure group at hand to prevent congress from taking action actually wanted by the army and navy, the administration is too timid to deal with the necessities of the situation.

Political Camouflage
This is one reason why the spectacular plan to form "coalition" cabinets will be regarded only as a piece of political camouflage designed to weaken Republican opposition during the coming campaign, and not to assist the country to deal frankly with all obstacles to higher production.

Sooner or later the public will grow weary of these political stratagems and of the selfishness of pressure groups and will insist that the federal government exercise its regulatory power, both with respect to production and the workers' organizations. There is ample power for the administration to accelerate production processes by seeing to it that existing statutes are not abused.

The problem facing the nation is well known to the industrial managers. Thus, there is a shortage of skilled labor. Not enough skilled laborers are available to run, in many instances, two or three shifts. The law, however, requires time and a half to be paid if any shift is kept overtime. The taxpayers of America are thus asked to pay far more than in any country in the world for the forging of weapons needed for defense. Taxes in their turn place such a heavy load on industry already that, where a good scale of wages prevails, it is difficult to see why national defense production cannot be accomplished on straight time instead of time and a half, especially when the work week is less than 48 hours.

The French owe their lack of preparedness today to their surrender to the radical demands for a 40-hour week. America is face to face with a similar crisis which the administration has already begun to side-step. Those who despair of democracy being able to do a defense job equal to that of autocracy and dictatorships do not want to see labor exploited or unfairly treated, but do expect the nation's govern-

George Corap (here one word censored) "famed in France as the conqueror of Abd-el-Krim, was forced to fall back from their advance positions in Belgium to the line of the Meuse river.

Explaining the first phases of the operations, Reynaud said that when the Germans invaded Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, the French were forced to move forward to meet them out of their line of prepared fortifications along the Belgian frontier.

It was then, Reynaud said, that the enemy launched its attack, forcing Corap's advancing army to withdraw.

"One would think the Meuse river was easy to defend because of the way it winds and because of the woods which are about it," Reynaud said, adding that it is "just because of these things that it is difficult to defend."

Defense also was difficult, he continued, because of "faults which will be punished," and went on amid cheers to explain that bridges across the Meuse had not been demolished.

"When I took over the war office," the senators interrupted with loud cries of "Finelli!"—that was the situation Reynaud said.

Must "Reply" to Lee
"We must take immediate decisions," he declared. "This is not the first time we have met and surpassed."

But we will reply to the enemy—I do this only if each soldier realizes his enormous task and the future of France realize their future is at stake.

Two of these sons can be proud they came forward to serve the country. I speak of General Weyand and Marshal Petain.

"Petain, the winner of Verdun and Weyand the man of Foch who stopped the Germans in 1918."

"Weyand is on the field of battle today."

"Between Petain and Weyand and myself there is complete accord."

During last weekend, Reynaud appointed General Maxime Weyand to replace General Maurice Gustave Gamelin as the allied commander-in-chief and brought Marshal.

mental leaders to assume a practical attitude where accelerated production and war emergencies plainly exist.

After the aviation industry's representatives called on the administration on Monday, it was announced that the industry didn't ask for a lowering of labor standards, and that if the request had been made, it would not have been granted.

This is hardly the way to begin to fight a war emergency or to instill confidence. The present administration has a big job to do to win the confidence of management and industrial executives generally and it is a job of far dealing rather than of economic partisanship.

There will be little chance of gear-fine up the private initiative system to win a war unless profits are limited and wage penalties, too, for increased production.

A British military spokesman declared that "certainly" no large German columns had reached Amiens although he acknowledged that "a few isolated tanks" may have penetrated there.

The spokesman said the western front battle, however, was "more confused than ever, with everybody behind everybody else's lines."

This man is sore about the unknown make of watch he was sold for his graduating child. But there are laws about putting what he said in print.

There ought to be a law against selling watches of doubtful origin. But we don't need that law for our company. 30 years of business experience have proved to the people of Appleton that they can rely on our advice regarding watches. They like the quality and cost, — and we have the styles to show you—NOW.

Britain's Singapore Base Is Source of Comfort for U. S.

Washington—Rubber and tin reserves in this country are good for only three or four months at normal rates of use. Therefore our heavy defense program makes all the more vital the security of our chief sources of these raw materials in the Dutch East Indies treasure house.

One new and significant fact now comes into the picture, and it should play an important part in preserving the status quo in the Dutch East Indies. That fact is this: Great Britain will make her mighty Singapore naval base available to us upon request. It is ours to use for the asking.

Singapore is an enormous base, capable of dry docking the largest battleships, with strongly defended repair facilities and air bases, strategically located to cover a 2,000 mile radius which includes not only the East Indies but the Philippines. It is important to us because the glaring defect of our position in the far Pacific is the lack of adequate naval bases.

Recently the senate naval affairs committee, in a study of our naval situation, stated that to carry on a war single-handed in the Pacific we should have to build an impregnable naval base in the Philippines and fortify Guam sufficiently to make its capture impossible—both of which would require several years. The committee stated that "due to lack of United States naval bases in this area, a war in the Far East could be undertaken only in conjunction with Great Britain, France and Holland."

British willingness to make Singapore ours for the asking is intended to ease somewhat that deficiency in our position.

Just now the situation is quiet in the Far East and the status quo is holding. Yet fear exists here that if a German victory becomes certain, Japan may move to the East Indies to take up squatters' rights. For years the Japanese government has been under pressure to do just that. Efforts were made in 1933 to obtain air bases, but the Dutch wouldn't permit it.

Any Move by Japan Would Create Crisis

Although it is openly recognized that any move now by Japan would create a crisis for us, this government has been careful not to indicate what its course would be. Secretary Hull has warned that any change in the status quo of the Dutch East Indies would menace the peace of the Pacific. The United States fleet has been ordered to remain in the mid-Pacific, a gesture that evidently has had a quieting effect. Beyond that this government is as silent as the sphinx.

Now that it becomes known that Singapore is available to us if we should want to use it, our position is considerably strengthened. There is the disadvantage that Singapore lies on the other side of the Philippines, about 1500 miles southwest of Manila. Guam is 1,500 miles east of Manila. Singapore must be supplied with ammunition and other fleet requirements. Thus there are communications difficulties. Nevertheless Singapore is a strong pillar of support and our interest in it was indicated when two American warships were sent to be present at the formal opening of the base in 1938.

Until we decide whether we shall pull out of the Orient or try to stay there, Singapore makes an excellent anchor in one of the richest areas in the world. If the British empire should break up in this war and we wished to retain our interests in the far Pacific, it would be essential that we have Singapore. Or more clearly, our position would be untenable if any potentially hostile power acquired this base.

In that case we should have to pull out of the Far East, bag and baggage, whether we wished to or not. The Philippines would have to shift for themselves. We could only hope, for ourselves, that whoever took control over the East Indies region would be kind enough to allow us to have tin and rubber with which to continue our defense preparations.

Homecoming Days At Hortonville to Be June 21 to 23

Commercial Club Is Sponsor; Fairgrounds Will Be Dedicated

Hortonville—The Hortonville Commercial club is busy planning its eighth annual Hortonville Homecoming, which will be held June 21, 22, and 23 at the fairgrounds purchased by the club last year.

Dedication of the fairgrounds, at which it will be given a new name, will be held in connection with the homecoming. M. F. Ziehm, general chairman, said today. The grounds and buildings are steadily being improved by the club, which has 66 members.

Other members of the general committee are Larry Mathews, Milford Steffen, Norman Heltterhoff, Wilbur Collar, Albert Schneider, Elmer Graf, Elmer Falck, Alvin Dohrbert, and Arnold Borchardt.

Proceeds from the homecoming will go toward the fairgrounds, Ziehm reported.

An outdoor sports show will be held Friday night, June 21, at which a boat designed for an outdoor motor, a hunting dog, and other gifts will be given away. The gifts will be distributed from the band stand and there will be a dance that evening in the pavilion. Numerous concessions will be operating on the grounds during the weekend.

"Farmer's night" will be held Saturday night, June 22, with a team of horses as the No. 1 gift and an old-time dance providing the entertainment. The Hortonville Commercial club will present a concert each of the three evenings.

An industrial parade which will pass along Main street and proceed out to the grounds will open Sunday's activities. The principal speaker for the homecoming will be presented Sunday afternoon and dedication services for the grounds will be held.

Gifts to be given away Sunday night include a boat, outdoor motor, refrigerator, davenport and chair, and washing machine. There will be another dance that evening.

VACATION TOURISTS WILL VISIT MOUNT VERNON

George Washington's home, Mount Vernon, will be one of the many interesting places to be visited by Appleton Post-Crescent vacation tourists when they reach Washington, D. C., on their trip. The itinerary in the nation's capital has been arranged so that many familiar historic spots can be seen at close hand.

Post-Crescent Tourists Will See Famous Historical Shrines

Mount Vernon, probably the most sacred historical shrine on the American continent, is one of the most interesting of the many interesting places to be visited by members of the Appleton Post-Crescent's vacation tour when they reach Washington, D. C., on Friday, June 21, the seventh day of their visit to the eastern seaboard. The party will leave Appleton on Saturday, June 15, and will reach the nation's capitol after visits to Niagara Falls, New York and the great World's Fair, Philadelphia and Atlantic City. The homeward journey will start late on the afternoon of the seventh day, in time to get into Chicago and back home to Appleton by Saturday night.

The total cost of this trip, except for meals in New York city and in Chicago, will be only $87.55. All the meals on the train, hotel rooms in New York and Washington, tickets to the fair, guide fees at Niagara Falls, New York, Washington and elsewhere, tips to servants, will be included in this price. Everyday more people are signing up for the tour because investigation of travel costs satisfy them that they could not hope to make this trip along where this cost traveling alone or in a small party.

Attracts Thousands

Washington annually attracts thousands of the visitors because of the many places of interest to be visited. The Post-Crescent's tour party will be guided to these places of interest so that a great many of them can be seen in a minimum time.

The tour party will be quartered at the New Colonial hotel while in Washington, and after breakfast will be taken by buses on the sight-seeing trip. The goal is Mount Vernon and Arlington National cemetery, but on the way stops will be made at the George Washington Memorial and at a number of other interesting places.

After Mount Vernon the tourists will visit Alexandria, Georgetown, Fort Meyer and Rock Creek Park.

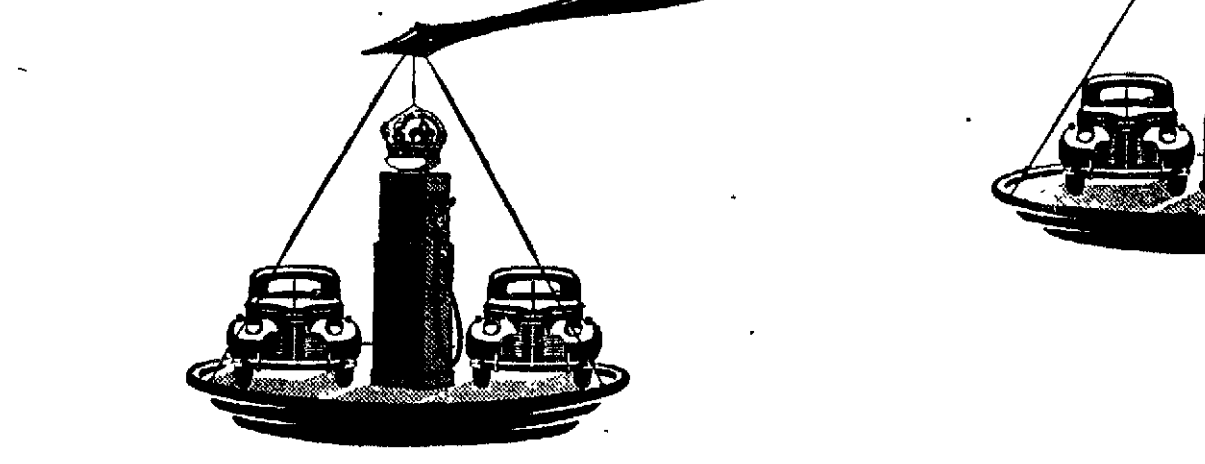

During the next month more than 31,000 young people of Wisconsin will be graduated from high schools, according to the Wisconsin Education association in a bulletin received at the office of Henry J. Van Straten, Outagamie county superintendent of schools.

In 1939 there were 30,668 public high school graduates, and with enrollments up over last year the association puts the number of anticipated graduations this spring at a bit over 31,000. This would represent the highest number of high school graduates for any one year in the history of the state.

Students See Film Of Life at Legion Boys' State Camp

What goes on at the American Legion-Boys State encampment was graphically presented to the assembly of Appleton High school Monday afternoon when a film was shown of the activities at the camp last summer.

Boys State is sponsored by the American Legion in an effort to teach the mechanics of city, county and state governments to high school juniors who have demonstrated their ability as leaders.

This year the high school will send through the cooperation of civic organizations seven junior boys, Charles Killefohn, William Burton, John Lenard, Donald Stritz, James Germanson, William De Long and Edgar Thomas.

Cows that produce the most butter in New York dairy herd improvement associations are about nine years of age.

last year, as to sex and age, the association finds that 1,844 more girls than boys were graduated in 1939. This difference, in the opinion of the educators, is due to the fact that more boys of high school age quit school to seek employment, while most of the girls continue their training through the high school years.

Wisconsin doesn't seem to be the breeding ground of "mental freaks" as no one in the state graduated below the age of 15 last year; 93 were 15 years of age when they graduated, while 1,529 were one year older. Of those who graduated at the tender age of 15, 60 per cent were girls and 40 per cent boys, which same percentage holds true in the group of graduates who were 16 years old.

On the other end of the scale the women seem to demonstrate their superiority reflected in their early-age-graduation leadership. Of the 195 pupils who were 21 years or older when they graduated from high school nearly three-fourths were men.

The average age of high school graduates in Wisconsin is between 17 and 18, with 25.24, or 82 per cent of all graduates, falling in those two age groups.

BASEBALL interest in this man's town seems to be picking up every day. We've had positive indications that the folks are getting excited about the national pastime as played by the Appleton Papermakers in the Wisconsin State league.

Recently we commented on a situation with the Appleton club and the next day we had a letter from an irate fan who was going to start petitioning and such like if the said situation was not remedied. It was, through no pressure by the fan, however, and so we won't carry it further.

Also, we were rather pleased to learn that more than a few Appleton people listen to radio broadcasts of games when the Papermakers are out of town. As a result of a broadcast at Fond du Lac one fan wanted to know "how come" on a certain inning's play. So we'll try to explain it as Manager Eddie Danicak explained it to us.

If you remember, Appleton scored four runs in the first of the ninth at Fond du Lac and then lost in the last of the ninth when Fondy came back with four. As the Appleton half the ninth got underway, and with his team behind, Danicak inserted a pinch hitter for Millmaki, his pitcher, who had been doing right well. The pinch hitter helped the Papermakers get their runs.

Came the Fondy half the ninth and Danicak had to insert a hurler whom he thought could hold Fondy. He did for a while and then in the cold, damp night air, he lost his control. Another hurler was called in, but he hadn't been able to warm up in the frigid temperatures and he couldn't locate the plate either. And there was no other hurler who could possibly get ready to take the mound.

And so, Appleton lost the game through no fault of strategy. It was just one of those things that happen in night ball at this time of the year.

Last night we listened to the game at Green Bay until Appleton took over its big lead in the seventh. One part of the broadcast interested us considerably, the reference to some inside baseball. With Malewig on first and Danicak at the bat, the announcer stated that as Ray was heading for second and as Bluege left short to take the throw at second, Danicak punched a hit through where Bluege had been and Malewig went all the way to third.

There's little wrong with that kind of baseball.

The radio announcer also made it appear that our friend Eddie isn't so popular because he argues and holds up the game. If that's one of the reasons so many of the games are running over two hours then perhaps someone besides the umpires should remind Eddie that the fans—home fans included—want to see a ball game and not a debate.

Lawrence college tennis squad is more than a little irked over the weatherman's trick at Galesburg, Ill., Saturday at the Midwest meet. According to reports, the Vikes were a cinch to take net honors and were rained out. Don Fredrickson appeared to be headed to the singles honors and the doubles team of Bayley and Chambers had defeated Monmouth and won a set from Knox, rated one of the strongest duos, when it started to rain.

The only thing the boys can do now is clean up on the state tennis honors here Saturday against Ripon, Carroll and Beloit.

"Thanks for the buggy ride. I had a wonderful (but cold) time" That was the crack of Marvin "Fat" Filz, Appleton High school trackster at the Valley relays at Green Bay West Friday night. Filz went along to run in the shuttle relay but when he arrived learned that, through a mixup, his name had not been submitted for the event. So Fat sat around and tried to keep warm and pep up his mates.

Defeats Moline on a Home
Run in the Ninth
Inning

Waterloo, farm club of the Chicago White Sox, finally broke into the Three Eye league win column, but did it the hard way on a ninth-inning home run.

Moline led the cellar team by two runs going into the last inning last night when Outfielder Tex Walton smacked a homer with two aboard to produce a 5 to 4 decision and break the team's 11-game losing streak. Waterloo, now is three and a half games behind Madison and Moline, which are tied for sixth.

Clinton climbed into a virtual first place tie with Springfield by whipping the latter club, 8 to 5 on the six-hit pitching of three moundsmen.

Cedar Rapids advanced into first division by taking an 11-inning game from Decatur, 8 to 5. The winners scored five runs in the first of the eleventh to win, squelching Decatur's counter rally after two runs had counted.

Evansville stayed within two games of the co-leaders by defeating Madison, 3 to 2, in 13 innings. John Dagenhard and Lee Hazel held the Wisconsin nips to nine hits.

Jack Dempsey and Wife Have Come to —
Parting of the Ways

New York—After seven years of married life Jack Dempsey and his wife, the former Hannah Williams, have agreed to a parting of ways.

The romance, often called one of Broadway's happiest, was terminated officially yesterday with a formal announcement of separation by Attorney Moses Polakoff, who gave "incompatibility" as the reason for the break-up.

There was no mention of a divorce although a formal separation normally precedes such action. Miss Williams, one time musical comedy star, is anxious to go back to the stage.

The Dempseys have two children—Joan, 5, and Barbara, 3. Polakoff said affairs were being adjusted "amicably" and that all arrangements would be completed next week when the former heavyweight champion returns to New York from a business trip.

Both have been married three times.

Milwaukee—Marquette university's 1940 football team will make but three appearances at home—against Iowa State, Texas Tech and Michigan State. On the road, the Hilltoppers will play Wisconsin, Creighton, Duquesne, Manhattan, Detroit and Arizona.

EYES NEW MARK

As the feature attraction of the 1940 Wisconsin state interscholastic track meet to be held at Camp Randall on May 25, Charles Fenske, miller of the year, will run a special paced mile in which he will attempt to break all existing records for the distance. The 1940 interscholastic meet is expected to attract one of the largest entry lists in the history of the event. Guy Sundt, manager of the carnival, expects that more than 700 candidates from over 100 high schools will vie for the honors in the three classes. The Class A title is now held by Milwaukee Washington. Whitefish Bay will defend its top position in Class B, while Horicon is the defending Class C champion.

A scheduled game between Wisconsin Rapids and Sheboygan was played Sunday as part of a double-header.

GREEN BAY—A spirited, productive inning was quite good enough to offset the handicap of a seventh-inning lapse, with the result that the Green Bay Bluejays lost to the Appleton Papermakers, 8 to 7, at league park here Monday night.

Battling completely alone, the visitors nailed up four markers in the seventh frame. The Jays then went to work in grand style by sending five runners across the plate and holding Appleton to one. But they had to be satisfied with an honorable defeat.

A slow infield, the result of a week's rain, contributed much toward occasional off-color fielding. John Donahue, Green Bay right-hander, had fair control until the hapless seventh, when he gave up four bingles and walked two. In his seven innings he allowed 12 hits, but most of them were scattered. James Petreman relieved Donahue, allowing a triple and a single for one run.

Appleton's hit worker, LaGrow, gave up only eight hits. The Bluejays made them count, however, and also took advantage of the seven passes he gave. He struck out seven.

Leo Feret, Green Bay catcher, hit a homer, while Malattia, Appleton first baseman, had two triples.

The seventh inning, with Appleton up, was a riot. Ivy, first man, grounded to Manager Otto Bluege, at short.

Malattia walked and Danicak, for his third hit, produced a two-bagger. Donahue walked Kubiszak, loading the sacks. Up came Malattia with a heave that was good for two bases and scores by Malawig and Danicak.

But that wasn't all for the Papermakers. Aronson singled, scoring Kubiszak and Malattia. Hoefflin, next up, got a single but went out on fielder's choice. LaGrow grounded to the pitcher for the third out.

Deliberate Golf Pays Off for Two In Womens Meet

Mrs. Page, Betty Jameson Are Exponents of Slow-Poke Game

FORT WORTH, Texas.—(AP)—Two women golfers most deliberate figures, both of whom used slow-poke games to win the national title, moved into match play of the women's Southern Golf association tournament today.

Slow motion perfection put Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., and Miss Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Texas, in the drivers' seats.

Only a season ago Betty, a likeable 20-year-old husky with power and finesse, won the national title. She drew mixed praise and criticism for her solid game—but nerve-wracking deliberation.

A sensitive lass, she seared up her game. Tournament after tournament she fell out of the running.

Two weeks ago, after losing the Texas title which she had held four years running, she confided she was going back to her old game—the game of concentration and study on every shot.

Yesterday she went out in the qualifying round of the southern, the laziness back in her game. She split the faraway, sent iron shots streaking to the greens and putted flawlessly. She was around in 76—one over women's par for River Crest's course.

Betty then watched Mrs. Page finish her fine round of 36-38-74 which won medalist honors. The woman who won the national title in 1937, Betty pointed out, played the same cautious, slow game.

Defending champion Marion Miley needed 80 shots because her driver constantly sent her into trouble.

Joey Archibald

Stopped in 2nd

Harry Jeffra Hangs K. O. On Maryland, N. Y., Feather Champ

Baltimore.—(AP)—They were calling Harry Jeffra "the champ" around Baltimore again today.

The wiry black-haired fighter from out Pimlico way won his second boxing crown last night by out-punching, outmaneuvering and out-smarting game little Joey Archibald of Providence, R. I., in 15 rounds of give-and-take mauling.

The Maryland and New York boxing commissions recognized it as a bout for the world's featherweight championship, although the National Boxing association refused to sanction it. Petey Scalzo of Pittsburgh is the N. B. A.'s champion.

There was no doubt as to who was the better fighter last night Jeffra, the former bantamweight champion, had things under control all the way and came within an eyelash of knocking Archibald out with a series of wicked rights in the second round.

It was sweet revenge for Jeffra. He went into the ring determined to atone for the controversial victory that Archibald scored over him in Washington last fall.

The 4,500 fans in the Coliseum were still mumbling about the colorless first round when Jeffra uncorked a smoking overhand right that sent Archibald sprawling to the floor with a resounding thud.

His eyes glazed, Archibald took a count of nine, rose on wobbly legs and walked into another vicious right that floored him for another nine count. Just before the bell, Joey went down again for no count.

OUT FOR THE COUNT Billings, Mont.—(AP)—Who says the west is tamed and timid now?

Willard E. Fraser, area census manager, says that more than half of 350 enumerators in eastern Montana, had to use horses to reach ranches and farms.

One enumerator hitched a trailer behind his car and took a horse along. When the car bogged down, the census man galloped over the hills counting noses.

Another census agent got lost for a day and froze his face.

LOCAL SOCIAL SECURITY COSTS UP 6 TIMES SINCE 1930

The above is an attempted visualization of relief and social security costs in the state of Wisconsin as prepared by the League of Wisconsin municipalities. It shows the growth of local contributions from a little over six million dollars in 1930 to over 35 millions in 1939, and evidently still going up. But the most paralyzing thing about it, perhaps, is that the total of all contributions for these purposes have been multiplied 17 times in nine years and, under prevailing conditions and policies, and despite apparent improvement in the economic outlook, are still to be multiplied some more.

The League of Wisconsin Municipalities believes that too great a proportion of this cost is laid upon the local property. There are many and good arguments to support this belief. But there is one outstanding fact even more important—the prevailing policies of the government make the drain, whether local, state or federal an apparently permanent one.

Illinois Setting Pace in Golf Meet

Northwestern, Defending Champ, Trails Badly At Halfway Mark

Columbus, Ohio.—(AP)—Crowning of two new champions appeared likely today as players entered the second half of the 72-hole medal play western conference golf tournament.

Northwestern University, the defending team titlist, was 22 strokes behind pace-making Illinois and virtually out of the running for first place.

Chase Fannon of Northwestern, the defending individual champion, is not playing because of ineligibility.

Illinois entered the 36-hole home stretch with 628 strokes, six ahead of Ohio State, the leaders being followed by Michigan with 636, Minnesota 642, Wisconsin 647, Northwestern 650, Iowa 659, Indiana 666, and Purdue 672. Chicago with only three men playing, was not in the team competition.

In the race for individual honors, William (Billy) Gilbert, an Ohio State sophomore, began the second round with an eight-stroke lead. He shot a one-over-par 71-74-145 yesterday on the windswept Ohio State course.

R. Palmer of Michigan was second with 153, G. Modjeska of Illinois, third with 154, J. Holmstrom of Illinois fourth with 156, and J. McMahon of Wisconsin fifth with 157.

The individual scores included: Wisconsin, B. Jacobs, 79-80-159; W. Atwood, 79-78-157; J. McMahon, 82-86-168; E. Mervicka 81-82-163; D. Smith, 88-88-176. Total 647.

Your Boy and

Graduation Days

We doubt if there is any event in the life of your boy that will be quite as important as Graduation from High School. It comes at a time in his life when events of that kind make lasting impressions—he'll live it over and over all during his life time, because it provides such pleasant memories—perhaps the happiest he will experience.

How much pleasanter these memories will be if he can recall that he was faultlessly dressed in the season's newest styles and smart patterns. That pleasure will be assured if you, his parents, select these most important of clothes from sturdy fabrics, so well tailored, they will give long wear and keep their beauty and the well dressed appearance of your boy for many years.

Select his clothes early, because there are so many last day activities to take his time. Select his Graduation Gifts early too—the assortments are finer and selection need not be hurried.

We are sure you can find just what you will want for your boy, here in our store, because we have prepared, with more than ample assortments of those much wanted colorful tweed suits—beautiful sport clothes—smart slacks—hundreds of snappy ensemble suits—sport shirts and sport hose.

Wise Defender Analyzes Play Of Declarer

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The only way to defend a hand properly is mentally to place one's self in the declarer's seat, to visualize his problems, to draw a logical conclusion as to his normal course of action and, finally, of course, to apply the proper countermeasures. The player who follows this plan will not be trapped as was East in today's deal:

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A 4 3
♥ 9
♦ A 9 6 3 2
♣ A K 7 5 2

EAST

WEST

♦ Q J 10 8 6
♣ A K 9 7 6 5 2

SOUTH
♠ A K 9 7 6 5 2
♥ J 5 4
♦ Q
♣ A 8 4

The bidding:
North East South West
1 diamond 1 heart 1 spade 3 hearts
Pass Pass 3 spades Pass
4 spades Double Pass Pass

West opened his fourth highest heart. East won with the queen and on the sound theory that declarer would try to ruff hearts in dummy, returned a trump to cut down dummy's ruffing power. Unfortunately, however, East made a very short-sighted selection of the particular trump to lead. Holding the almost complete sequence of Q-J-10-8, he made the superficially correct return of the queen. Declarer won and was none too pleased at West's failure to follow suit. However, refusing to admit defeat, declarer went about his task in a highly workmanlike fashion. He ruffed a heart, cashed the diamond ace, and ruffed a diamond. He then led a dummy with a club and ruffed another diamond, then led his last club to dummy's remaining honor. When East had to follow suit, declarer was as good as home. He led a third round of clubs.

Obviously, it would have done East no good to ruff, since declarer merely would have discarded his remaining heart. East, therefore, threw off a heart. Declarer ruffed again, thereby shortening himself to the K-9-7 of trumps and one heart. East, at this stage, held the J-10-8 of trumps and the high heart. Declarer now won the trick and the heart. East won and returned the jack of spades. Declarer coolly ducked this trick and East then was forced to surrender the last two and fulfilling tricks to declarer's K-9 tenace, which lay over the 10-8.

The hand was well played as far as declarer was concerned, but shrewd defense would have defeated any one who was not actually clairvoyant. At the second trick, after winning with the heart queen, East should have returned the eight of trumps, not the queen. Despite the fact that East had doubled the four spade contract, declarer would not be able to read this lead as from Q-10-8 and certainly could not afford to put in his own nine spot with any hope of holding the trick from declarer's point of view. East might hold honors in diamonds and clubs in addition to the A-K of hearts. With the desirability of ruffing out at least one heart in dummy, it would be unwise for declarer to play any card except the ace or king of trumps on East's deceptive lead of the eight spot. Declarer could not dream that West was void of spades, hence would be afraid that the play of the nine would permit West to duck and return a trump, thereby robbing dummy of both ruffs. If, as was entirely possible, East had a singleton spade and West the Q-J-10, it would be fatal for declarer to duck the eight spot.

Obviously, all East had to do was insure two spade tricks for himself while confining declarer to one heart ruff, and the contract would have been defeated.

My Neighbor Says—

Picnic Hints—Don't peel potatoes for use in salads until you have cooked and chilled them. Then dice or cut them into thin slices, using a sharp knife. Don't prepare salads with too much dressing. Carry an extra supply in a jar to be passed at the picnic.

A quarter pound stick of butter can be cut quickly and neatly into pats for serving with a piece of piano wire or a strong white sewing thread held taut between the hands.

Dredge your calf, beef, pork or lamb liver (they're all equally good) with flour before removing skin and tubes, and you'll find it much easier to hold.

SHOWER SUGGESTIONS

Amid the excitement and general gaiety of a bridal shower it is all important that the food be dainty, tempting and keeping with the spirit of the party. The following suggestions are simple, delicious and attractive.

Here's a salad that speaks of Spring, of floating bridal veils, and gay little feasts. There's a crisp green pepper, cucumber, celery, and the cool tang of lime flavored gelatin and cream cheese. When the salad is unmolded, a layer of the piquant cheese mixture stays on top and crunchy vegetables in the clear green gelatin underneath.

It's perfect to serve at a shower for the bride, and later on she'll want the recipe to use at her first party luncheon.

Blanc Mange, garnished with whipped cream and surrounded with fresh fruit or berries makes a perfectly delicious dessert. Another favorite is Sponge Drops, dainty and light with a satiny white icing to add to their goodness.

Spring Bride's Salad
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup warm water
1 cup grated cucumber
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon onion juice
Dash of cayenne
1 teaspoon salt
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
1 cup finely sliced green pepper
1 cup celery

Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Add cucumber, vinegar, onion juice, cayenne, and salt. Force through sieve. Chill. When slightly thickened, add 1 to softened cream cheese. Fold in green pepper and celery, turn into individual molds.

Blanc Mange
1 quart milk
6 egg yolks
2-3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup whipping cream

Fruit for decorating.
Blend in the salt and vanilla. Pour into lightly greased ring mold 10 inches in diameter and chill 7 to 8 hours or overnight. When ready to serve, unmold on serving platter and garnish with whipped cream and other fresh fruits in season are delicious with this Blanc Mange. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Rigid Rules Hamper Teacher In Judging of His Students

BY ANGELO PATRI

A is a coveted mark. Even among high school and college seniors it is something to be worked for, sacrificed for—a stepping stone toward a set goal. Scholarships, positions, honors depend upon that.

Human judgment is fallible but as we are all human beings and are measured and judged daily by other human beings, things usually even up in the long run. Teachers are in a difficult position, however. They must rate their students on the basis of what they do. Good enough. An error creeps in now and then, as an injustice is worked occasionally, only to be righted, or evened up, by some other equally misplaced decision. Left to themselves the teachers usually manage to get close to the truth. But they are not always left to work out their own salvation. There are supervisors.

Some supervisors, for reasons of administration, prescribe the percentage of A's a teacher may award in the class. This is easily understood, because scholarships are limited, high places are few, honors must be strictly limited, and admittance to higher institutions has to be regulated according to space and money allotted. That idea is fine for administration but it works peculiar hardships on students.

Just Out of Luck

John came in to see me about his ratings. He was about to be graduated from college. He had worked hard for a scholarship that was based on honor ratings. His ratings were B-plus but his work was in the honor class. Nobody, including the teacher in charge, denied this.

"How is it?" I asked. "That you can't get this A?"

"It's this way. The dean hands the instructor a sheet of orders. It sets the percentage of students to whom he can give A, B-plus, and so forth. He is out of A's before he reaches the top men and he is not always easy because some of us are so close he can't pick the winner. When that happens he just takes us alphabetically and it's my hard luck to have a name beginning with Z."

"It wouldn't matter except that the scholarship is at stake, and work as hard as I can to get the best results in my work as often as anybody else, I still can't get that A. I'll have to do something, but what?"

"Begin at your end of the alphabet every alternate rating day. That ought to even things up some."

"That's an idea. I'll get him to do that. He wants to help me."

and chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise, if desired. Serves 6.

Sponge Drops

6 egg yolks
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 orange rind, grated
1 cup cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
6 egg whites

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored, add lemon juice, salt, sugar, and orange rind. Beat stiff and add flour which has been sifted with baking powder. Fold in the whites beaten until stiff but not dry. Drop by spoonfuls on greased, floured cookie sheet and bake 3 minutes at 400 degrees F. Put two together with stiff Seven Minute Frosting to which grated orange rind has been added. Dust with powdered sugar. Makes 2 dozen.

Dix Says Grandmothers Not Fitted to Rear Children

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Can a man sacrifice too much? For two years I have been engaged to a very fine man whom I love dearly, but the goal of our desires, being married and having a home of our own, is no nearer than it was at first. The reason for this is my fiancée's mother-in-law. He had been married and his wife died. His wife's mother took possession of the baby and has become so selfishly absorbed in her that she lacks the courage to separate them. She seems to have a hypnotic power over him, making him feel that her life has been given up for the sake of the child. But this is not the case, as he has done everything possible to repay her by giving her luxuries and making her happy, while she has done nothing to make things pleasant for him. My fiancée insists that he loves me and looks forward to marrying me "some day," but he puts his mother-in-law and her desires above me and mine, and sacrifices me ruthlessly to her, so it makes me doubt his affection. What do you think? K. R. L.

Dorothy Dix

Answer: Your fiancée is certainly giving you a rough deal in pining, but strange as it may seem, that is his queer proof of love for you. He feels you are so near and dear to him, so much a part of him, that he offers you up along with himself on the sacrifice altar.

But it isn't much comfort to a girl to be sure that a man loves her if he considers other people before he does her; if he is more solicitous of their welfare than he is of hers, and if he is concerned about doing his duties to others that he overlooks any obligations he may have to her.

I shouldn't advise any girl to marry such a one unless she also has the martyr complex. No wife enjoys playing second fiddle.

No doubt the man who makes himself the family god consoles himself by feeling noble, but almost always he is merely being stupid. For it is the tragedy of sacrifice that it hinders other than it helps and does more evil where most good was intended. We all know brilliant boys who gave up opportunities that would have taken them to fame and fortune because Mother didn't want them to leave home.

Girls who gave up the men they wanted because Father didn't like their politics or their religion. Parents who stayed themselves to death to support lazy children. Half of the parasites and the wretches in the world were made that way by somebody's sacrifices. If they had been compelled to work or starve, they would have worked.

Probably your fiancée is patting himself on the back because he is giving up his happiness in marrying you and having a home of his own, in order not to grieve his mother-in-law. He doesn't consider that he is blighting your life and doing his child irreparable injury by depriving her of the guidance and association of a modern, up-to-date young woman.

For grandmothers, no matter how conscientious and devoted they are, are not fitted to rear children. They are either too strict or too lax. Their generation, and the child's are too far apart to get them a common viewpoint and the understanding and sympathy, especially the wisdom that they need to deal with modern youth.

What About Men And Beauty Shops

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am disgusted with my husband. He is forever going to beauty shops for permanent waves and to get his fingernails manicured and his eyebrows arched and so on. He wears a corset to improve his figure and his lingerie is finer than mine. He says that if it is good for women to beautify themselves, it is right for men.

Answer: I think if boys would wait until they are 25 and knew what their tastes in wives were, it would do more than any one thing to promote happy marriages.

But the matter of age isn't so important in marrying as the ability to support a wife and family, and no schoolboy can do that. He has to dump his wife and let his parents take care of and that is a scurvy trick to play on Mom and Dad.

Modern Police Science Is Ultimately Going to Approach the Standing of a Profession, and the Schools for Police Officers Will Begin to Attain Some of the Distinction Accorded West Point and Annapolis

For years I have attempted to dispel erroneous ideas and antiquated superstitions through the facts presented in this educational column. Perhaps it will be news to many when they read that policemen are not "tax cops" but are superior in intelligence. Just look at the data presented today, and you will gain new respect for America's latest profession—police science.

CASE Q-168: Horace W., aged 45, is a wholesale druggist. "From your discussion about the police officers in Northwestern's new Traffic Institute, I'm compelled to believe that cops are becoming high hats," he spoke goodnaturedly.

"You don't mean to tell me that policemen are going collegiate, do you?"

"What will the jokesters do now when they can't poke fun at the dumb cops any longer?"

"But seriously, Dr. Crane, how do you find the policemen in the class?"

Obviously, this picked group was above the average. The men were chosen from numerous applicants. They are here for a year on annual fellowships of $1,200, provided by the Kupper Foundation and the Alfred P. Sloan, Jr. Safety Award.

To show you the caliber of their "mental horsepower" or abstract intelligence, I might cite their scores on the Army Alpha intelligence test.

Many of you male readers took this test in the army during the World War. It has been administered to two million soldiers and college students. Every year since 1922, I have given it to my university classes.

Policemen Are Brilliant. At least 5,000 college students must have taken this test under my own supervision. The median score for my evening classes at Northwestern university has always ranged from 138 to 143. In my day classes at Kupper Foundation, it usually falls about 155.

But the median score for these policemen was 162. That is the highest class median I have ever encountered in all my teaching, both here and in the East.

These men, therefore, are quick on the trigger mentally, as well as with their revolvers. They are literally brilliant. The influence of this type of man upon our police departments throughout America is going to be admirable. More power to them! Police science is now a real profession.

Good Taste Today by Emily Post

Hospitable people who live in little houses that have no extra space for "company" and whose purses are not very deep, will surely have great sympathy for the writer of this letter: "When relatives, whom we love dearly, stop off in town to see us, and then decide to stay over for several days, are we expected to pay for their reservations in a hotel since the limitations of our three-room apartment will not allow putting them up here at home? The trouble is we'd like to, and we have stayed with them no end of times. But this expense would certainly put real hardship on our already back-broken budget. Do you think that they could possibly think us grasping in taking everything from them and not giving anything in return?"

The answer to all questions about paying the hotel bills or one's friends is that ordinarily you are NOT expected to assume this obligation. When you write to INVITE people to come and make you a visit and you haven't room for them at home, you explain this fully when you invite them and say that you want them to be your guests at the Jackson House, where you will take rooms for them. In this case, you do of course pay for their rooms. But according to your account, it seems to me that your situation is quite different. It must be plain to your relatives that you can't ask them to stay in your apartment. And if you have very limited means, they must also have some idea of this.

As a matter of fact, I can't imagine that I would make them feel more uncomfortable than you are not taking the paying of their own hotel bill for them. There are undoubtedly other ways in which expenditure of effort instead of money will add to the pleasure of their visit. If you can't even invite them to meals, you can at least ask them to tea and perhaps invite a few friends to meet them. In other words, if you do willingly and graciously whatever you can, and make no pretense of doing what you can't, that is what will best please most people.

Young Man Asks About Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me whether you think it impossible for a boy to blow the horn of his car to signal for a girl to come out of her house? Would this be different for A and B situations: A—when she expects him and they are late, and B—when he is just dropping around unexpectedly to invite her to go with him to visit friends she knows.

Answer: (A) Questionable. (B) Impossible.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Behavior in Public." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

No doctor can tell you why some persons' feet swell in certain climates, and others' don't. But if you have ever suffered from cut insoles, blistered heels and burning soles you know the pain does show on your face and that your posture is definitely ruined.

As far as I can ascertain there is no correcting of such a foot ailment. One must endure it. And you had better march right downtown and get yourself a very comfortable pair of shoes which may be cut out for ventilation, providing enough room to give your foot sturdy support. Get them a half size larger than what you usually wear, and at least one width wider. The new flaties, or airplane soles which are so popular are a gift of heaven if you insist upon looking smart and being comfortable at the same time during hot weather.

A Treatment

Each night when you return home from a day's gadding, soak your feet in hot epsom salted water, and after drying, massage them well with a foot lotion which contains menthol. If your instep or heel has been cut or blistered you must treat them expertly with a germicide and pads. Otherwise infection might set in and then you will have a pretty problem on your hands.

A nurse on a movie lot taught me how to put a pad for a blistered heel or instep if you cannot get to a specialist for one. Take a piece of gauze fold it several times to a considerable thickness—making a square. Then fold it twice so when you cut a curve in the folded corner it will open to a hole in the center of your square of gauze. This hole should be just large enough to fit over your blister or cut. You then take a piece of white adhesive and strap it over the gauze to hold it in place. It may show above your shoe, but forget about it—in a few days, with your new shoes, you will not need to wear the pad.

Some people find an arch support necessary, but specialists have told me that no arch supporter is needed if your shoe feels well. Correct shoes are built to support the arch.

Certain medicated talcs keep the foot cool far into the day if applied before you put on your hose. Persons who suffer from burning feet cannot go without stockings. In fact, men and women who stand on their feet many hours during the day in hot weather, will find that white woolen socks are a great comfort. I sneeze white because the dye in other socks may be sweated out and get into a splitting of the skin. That naturally, is likely to cause infection.

For instant relief, when pain is pretty racking, take off your shoes walk a few steps in your stockings and then sit down and place your feet high on the back of a chair or desk. That refreshes them quickly and renews your vitality.

Needless to warn you, that chronic foot trouble should be treated by a specialist—like excessive sweating, skin rashes, or aches in the arches.

My leaflet, "Treatment for Perspiring Feet" contains two valuable formulas which you may mix yourself or have mixed at a drugstore. If you request it write me care of this paper and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope to cover postage cost.

A soaking in epsom salts is most refreshing and soothing to tired feet.

"Adelaide thinks Hugh Saltus treated his wife badly and forced her to leave," Isobel told Brenda.

"But why? Why does she think so, I mean?"

Isobel grinned. "Because he's an artist, my dear. Adelaide distrusts artists on general principle. She had a boarder who left, owing her a big bill. He said he was a 'black and white.' That's what Adelaide always calls him anyway: 'that black and white' that skipped without paying his bill." She's not awfully keen on writers either. "Not unless they're warningly commercial like—like Mac." Brenda noticed the involuntary softening of her voice at the mention of that name. "If you hadn't been a Burnham, and the niece of your aunt, I doubt if she'd have taken you in here."

Brenda's small chin rose a trifle. It was not for anyone named her to leave! Isobel told Brenda.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

JAVA'S GREATEST CROP

If we search the world for islands with the most people, we find three which lead all others. They are Great Britain, Honshu and Java.

Beside a Java river.

In round numbers, Honshu has 49,000,000 people, Great Britain 45,000,000 and Java 40,000,000. There are no other islands, no matter what their area, which can equal the population of the three I have named.

Honshu is the largest island of the Japanese empire. On it we find fast-growing cities, among them Tokyo. The city of Tokyo now ranks third among the world's cities.

Although Java does not have such a big population as Honshu or Great Britain it has more people to the square mile. It is only about three-fifths as large as the other two islands I have named.

Java has 820 persons to the square mile.

It were not for rice the island of Java could not support so many people. Rice is the great food, the nearest crop.

Rice is planted in low-lying ground and much of it is covered by water. If we watch a native plowing a field we see the plow being pulled by a pair of water-buffaloes. Both the man and the beasts walk through water above the ankles perhaps even up to the knees.

Men do the work of plowing but the custom in Java is for women to sow the seed and reap the grain.

One acre of well-watered rice land will produce almost a ton of rice in a year. Java has an annual crop of from 7,000,000 to 9,000,000 tons of rice. This crop never fails and the people do not suffer from lack of food.

When husks of rice are left on the supply food with an important vitamin. A Dutch scientist in Java was first to prove the world a part of this fact.

Natives of Java speak of a goddess named Sri. They say she watches over the rice crop. One of their stories says she once took the form of a rice bird and 'broke off ears of rice with her bill.' This story has been used to explain why natives like to cut rice stalks with small knives instead of sickles. They say they are following the method of the goddess as closely as possible.

Before she realized it, she had promised to dance with Di Wilson and his daughter, to dine next week with the Harpers, to spend a whole day at the VanNesses. "Dear Miss Ponsonby, I've honestly lost track of what I'm to do for the next ten days! Will you be very kind to me and let me get straightened out before I ever so slightly with friendly manner. "Mac has done nothing but beam in her direction all evening. Better tell her you've staked out claim there, my dear!"

She sighed unconsciously. "She Mac's sort all right. Hugh's, too, appears. Why, oh, why wasn't born with a pair of dimples and curls like a baby cherub's?"

"And a temper like Old Nick's," Eric chuckled, watching Brenda smile change as Mac murmured something in her ear. "My word, she doesn't appear to have any love for our advertising man, does she?"

Isobel Burke, watching her narrowly for any sign of condescension or boredom had to admit that the girl from New York was enjoying herself. Brenda's cheeks were flushed, her dimples were visible almost constantly. The heat had curled her hair tightly about her white forehead, and her eyes shone like blue stars at the compliments.

"Nice child, isn't she?" Eric commented, coming to stand by Isobel.

"I think she's going to be a distinct addition to our little household, en Isobel." He sent her a glance tinged

In spite of his own—shall we say—inclination toward her—

They watched the little scene with interest; Mac's urgent, hurried words; Brenda's quick displeasure at the young man's eventual departure, his lean face colored with anger.

"What could he have said to her?" Isobel speculated. "She was like a gay little girl at a birthday party a minute ago; now she looks simply furious!"

Prices of Wheat Shift Rapidly in Unsettled Trade
Maximum Losses are Paired Frequently on Chicago Market
Chicago—(P)—Overshadowed by news of continued German successes and pegged by minimum prices under which they could not go, wheat fluctuated rapidly and widely today in a range of about 3 cents and at times as much as 4 cents under yesterday's close.
Maximum losses, however, were pared frequently and much of the time the market held steady at net losses of about 2 cents for the day. Trade was sensitive to moderate buying and selling orders.
At their lows, wheat futures were within 2 cents of minimums established; corn within about 1 1/2 cents. Soy beans reached minimum levels.
Receipts were: Wheat three cars, corn 23, oats seven.
Wheat closed 11-21 cents lower than yesterday's close. May 82 1/2, July 82-82 1/2; corn 4-1 cent down. May 63 1/2, July 62-62 1/2; oats 4-1 1/2 lower.

Stocks in One of Broadest Breaks In 2-Year Period
Exchange Sees Biggest Turnover of Shares Since September
New York—(P)—War stocks today led the market in one of the widest breaks in two years as severe allied reverses brought visions to Wall Street of a German-forced quick peace.
Losses ran to 13 or more points for aviation stocks, electrical equipment, copers, motors and chemicals. The ticker-tape frequently was behind floor dealings on the downswing, slowing on feeble recovery shifts. Quotations were above the lows in most cases at the close, with dealings speedy. Transfers were around 4,000,000 shares, biggest turnover since last September.
The list flopped at the start, with a number of issues late in making their appearance due to the inability of specialists to coordinate bid and asked prices.
The main depressant, brokers said, were dispatches telling of brisk Nazi advances, defeat of the Ninth French army, capture of the French General Giraud and the approach of the invading forces to the English channel. Later bulletins from battlefronts failed to hearten speculative contingents and, after intermittent steadiness, the slide was resumed.
Major commodities weakened. Bonds generally followed stocks, although German and Danish dollar loans moved upward. The "free" British pound sterling dropped substantially, along with the French franc.
Grains at Chicago, pegged at last Saturday's final levels, were soft for a time but cut declines later. Wheat finished off 1 1/2 to 2 cents a bushel and corn 1/2 to 1. Cotton, in afternoon transactions, was down 1/2 to 1 1/2 a bale. Well in arrears were futures of wool tops, rubber, copper and hides.
Commission houses reported that relatively sizable offerings of American securities from the Far East, presumably Shanghai, were an unsettling feature at the start. There were doubts, though, that much dumping came from Europe. One of the few stabilizing market influences was believed to have been the recognition that the majority of impaired margin accounts went overboard last week. At the same time, while the technical position was seen as considerably improved, outright liquidation from apprehensive and discouraged investment sources was sufficiently plentiful in the forenoon to drive down trends.
The financial sector was voiced by one commentator: "From a market viewpoint it is not the hope or 'feeling' that we will not enter the war which is important—it is the 'belle' or fear that we will, or that Germany may win, which is the vital factor. With that impression so widely held, people sell stocks anticipating war conditions—high taxes, low profit margins and dividends, regimentation and so forth."

Today's Market At a Glance
New York—(P)—Stocks, weak; war shares tumble. Bonds, soft; war selling cracks corporates. Foreign exchange, easy; Canadian dollar record low. Cotton, lower; general selling. Sugar, easy; world deliveries make new seasonal lows. Metals quiet; spot copper fractionally lower. Wool tops weak; commission houses and boston selling. ## Form Six Teams For Competition In Senior League

Squad Representatives Decide to Use 14-Inch Ball This Year

New London — The formation of six teams for the Senior men's softball league was assured at a meeting of team representatives at Washington High school last night and arrangements were made for launching the season on Tuesday, June 4.

Team rosters will be turned in by team captains at another league meeting next Monday evening, May 27. The Lutheran Men's club will have two teams in the circuit again this year and will be out for practice on the school diamonds this Thursday evening. The Plymouth and Edison teams, which also will be represented again this year, plan to meet in a practice tilt sometime next week. The Methodist Men's club also will have a team. While not represented, the Congregational Men's club is expected to supply the sixth entry.

Regulations decided at the meeting included the use of a 14-inch ball in preference to the 12-inch horseshoe because of the close interference of the two diamonds and the danger of injury with the hard ball when play runs into the dusk of evening. Games will start at 6:15 on Tuesday and Thursday evenings with two diamonds in play each night.

Eight players will constitute a minimum squad to escape forfeit and only men over 30 years of age will be eligible for play unless accepted by the board of managers.

R. M. Shortell, city recreation director, promised that efforts will be made to have the two diamonds graded and leveled, particularly the western plot.

Organization of a young men's league under the sponsorship of New London merchants was discussed afterwards with a few of the younger groups. The organization would supplant the former Industrial league which has been absorbed by other groups. It was pointed out that sponsorship of a team would cost a merchant not more than $10 the first year for entry fee and equipment, and bats and balls could still be used the following year.

Several merchants who backed teams last year have such equipment available.

A team of high school boys and graduates backed by the Pure Milk cooperative already has been formed by Jay Rogers as a prospective entry in the loop. The boys will play a practice game with the Borden All-Stars at the city ball park at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Young men interested in playing will seek sponsors this week and report back at another meeting at the high school Tuesday, May 28.

Company C Members Decide To Form 'Last Man's Club'

Waupaca — Veterans of Company C, 4th Wisconsin Infantry, did not allow the cold rainy weather to dampen their spirits as they gathered Sunday at Grand View, Chain o' Lakes, for a reunion. Captained as they were 23 years ago by Dr. C. W. Andrews, members present unanimously agreed that Dr. Andrews must continue as their leader, and as such he was in charge of all of the activities of the day.

Sixty-eight men of the 178 who enrolled in May, 1917, were present for their second reunion to make plans for a Last Man's club, completing a permanent organization to meet annually until five remain to toast the ones gone before, with a bottle of choice cognac to be placed in a vault of the Farmer's State bank until that date.

The company organized by Dr. Andrews, was made up of the first volunteers from this community: the eastern part of Portage county including Almond, Belmont, New Hope and Rosholt; the western part of Waupaca county including Waupaca, Weyauwega, Scandinavia and Iola and the northern part of Waushara county which included Waushara. One group trained under John McCabe, Waupaca youth, Almond; another trained at Iola under Loren Gmeiner, Waupaca; and the third group trained at Waupaca under Bruce R. McCoy, son of Colonel Robert McCoy. Lee Yorkson, who, although he was not accepted as a volunteer, was instrumental in forming the company by turning his print shop into a recruiting office and at the meeting Sunday "Baldy," as he is familiarly called, was made an honorary member of the company.

Dr. Andrews President. Dr. Andrews was elected president; Loren Gmeiner, vice president; and Ray Pinkerton, secretary-treasurer. Directors elected were Rex Dean, Scandinavia; Ed Frick, Iola; Ed Manney, Almond; John Lesenski, Amherst; and Dr. Norman Lesenski, Waupaca. The entire group of officers will meet within a short time to consider a constitution and by-laws to be presented at the next meeting, May 31, 1941.

A memorial service for the twenty deceased members followed the business meeting. Their names and enlistment addresses: Peter Belka, Almond; Adolph R. Borgen, Amherst; Emil H. Brandt, Waupaca; Orville Ballard, Waupaca; Ernest Brightman, Waupaca; James Cooney, Amherst; Eugene Gaudreault, Waupaca; Gray, Cresleba, Waupaca; John Gray, Amherst; Borden Guyant, Waupaca; Ryder L. Wilson, Waupaca; Alfred W. Zwickey, Iola.

On Aug. 17, 1917, the entire company, commanded by Dr. Andrews, left Waupaca for Camp Douglas and trained there until Sept. 25, 1917, when it entrained for Camp McArthur at Waco, Texas. In October, 1917, the 22nd Division was formed and Company C was broken up and its men transferred to many different outfits throughout the division. Some went to Company I, 128th Infantry and were later transferred to the First division, with which they participated in many battles. Others went to divisional headquarters at Battery E, 121st Field artillery, to the 107th Engineers, to 107th Signal Battalion, to the Remount stations, to the 107th Supply trains, to the 32nd Division Military police company and to the 107th Ammunition trains. Dr. Andrews, the only doctor in the United States army who was a line officer, was allowed to resign as such and given a commission in the medical corps.

Went to Germany. Nearly all of the company went to France. After the armistice those who had not been taken out by sickness, wounds and death continued on the march to Germany and occupied areas along the Rhine river as part of the army of occupation. Remaining in Germany until May 1, 1919, they returned to the United States and were discharged during the month of May. For that reason the company plans to hold its reunions on the Sunday nearest to Memorial day.

As the roll was called Sunday afternoon each man answered with a brief history of his life since they had been discharged from the army. Those responding to the roll were Oliver Allen, Neenah; Axel H. Anderson, Waupaca; Walter C. Anderson, Rosholt; Dr. C. W. Andrews, Waupaca; H. P. Barrington, Manawa; Charles Burger, Hinsdale, Ill.; Almer O. Wilson, Waupaca.

Two of the company whose homes are in Waupaca were unable to be present due to serious illness, Lyle Barnhart and Ellsworth Barrington.

Special honors were paid John Loftis and Reuben Lewis, oldest and youngest of the company—Lewis being but 17 years of age at the time of his enlistment.

Federal tables show that a white baby boy at birth can expect to live 59 years. If he gets through the first year he can look forward to 62 years. For girls it's longer: 63 years at birth and 65 after the first year.
